Arnold on the Trial—Poses Some Questions

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

"What I'd like is to have the police find the guilty person no matter who it is," said Rodney Arnold, who was convicted by a County Court jury of manslaughter first degree in the shooting death of Elizabeth Blaustein, 31.

Arnold, 30, of Kerhonkson, was interviewed by this reporter in the county jail where he will be confined until County Judge Raymond J. Mino imposes sentence on April 28. Arnold could receive a prison sentence up to 25 years.

Meanwhile, Francis Martocci, defense attorney, made known that an appeal will be taken on the conviction immediately after Arnold hears his sentence.

Authorities had charged that the convicted former guard at the Eastern New York Correctional Facility at Napanoch, fatally wounded Mrs. Blaustein, 31-year-old mother of three, while the two were on a date on the morning of June 1, 1970 near Accord. The prosecution also alleged Arnold turned the gun on himself, inflicting a wound of the head.

"With the evidence they had I don't see how they could convict me," said Arnold. "They didn't find my fingerprints on the gun." The weapon authorities charged was used in the shooting incident was a 9mm automatic pistol belonging to Arnold.

"The case was loaded with reasonable doubt, and it was 50-50 in my favor," the prisoner commented. Arnold noted that X-rays taken of Mrs. Blaustein and particles of cartridges taken during surgery from his head were missing from the evidence.

Arnold told this reporter that he had no recollection of what occurred for a period of time prior to the morning of the shooting, or for some days after the incident. His attorney at trial contended that the head injury suffered by his client resulted in a form of amnesia and complete loss of memory.

Arnold, who was critically wounded in the June, 1970 incident, was confined for days in the Kingston Hospital intensive care unit recovering from the head injury.

"When I regained my senses at the hospital," Arnold said, "I asked my wife about my motorcycle. I thought I had been in a crackup."

He told the interviewer that the first he knew anything about a shooting was when Dr. Robert Aquilina, who attended Arnold, told him that the head injury came from a bullet.

Special

Arnold said that he knew the area in the vicinity of Accord and Kyserike Road, and after he was released from the hospital and custody he went with some relatives to the area in July, 1970 and looked around after being told that authorities accused him of shooting Mrs. Blaustein and himself. He commented that he had no recollections of anything.

The convicted man insists he is innocent of the crime. He had entered a plea of innocent at a preliminary hearing and maintained his innocence throughout the trial before Judge Mino and the jury of nine men and three women that returned the first degree manslaughter conviction earlier this week.

"There are certain individuals who should have been investigated by the state police, who were not," Arnold said. He did not mention names in the interview.

Arnold told the reporter that he had no recollection of working at the Napanoch correctional facility the day prior to the shooting incident. He couldn't recall dinner at his home the night of May 31, which was attended by Mrs. Blaustein and the Arnold family. He had no recollection of leaving his home at 9:30 that night with Mrs. Blaustein and driving off in her station wagon in which the woman was found mortally wounded in Accord after 1 a.m. the following morning.

"I still can't understand how they lost those exhibits," the prisoner said.

At one point in the interview Arnold observed, "I am the first person charged with murder who was ever let out on bail." He had been free in bail of $10,000 until the jury was seated in county court and then bail was revoked by Judge Mino, who remanded the man to the custody of the sheriff.

Asked about the 9mm automatic pistol, Arnold said that he had carried the gun with him on occasions when he went out with Mrs. Blaustein "after my life had been threatened." He said the threat was made in February, 1970. He added that he carried the gun "for protection."

A prosecution witness at trial had testified that in his opinion the eight bullet wounds reportedly found in the woman's body had been caused by two bullets. The prosecution through witnesses accounted for 14 bullets that had been in the pistol, including one that authorities contended caused the injury to Arnold's head.

Commenting on the wounds in the woman's body, Arnold said, "I don't believe two bullets did all that damage." He noted that there must have been more than three bullets "altogether."

Authorities contended that after Mrs. Blaustein was shot, she drove her station wagon five miles from the scene of the shooting to Accord seeking help.

"I don't see how this woman could have driven five miles with eight bullet wounds," Arnold said. "It is inconceivable." He described the station wagon as having a four speed transmission and a stick shift.

Arnold said his wife is still faithful to him. "She is a wonderful wife," he observed. He spoke of his friendliness toward Mrs. Blaustein for some time prior to the June, 1970 incident, and said his wife had learned of an affair with Mrs. Blaustein through him.

Mrs. Arnold had testified she knew of the affair and had invited Mrs. Blaustein to live at the Arnold residence, hoping the affair would end, but it didn't. After a week or so, Mrs. Blaustein was told to leave.

Mrs. Blaustein and her husband were legally separated.

"I am confident I will win the appeal," Arnold said.

Copters Pull Off A Daring Rescue

SAIGON (UPI)—Five rocket-firing American helicopters swooped into Fire Support Base No. 6 through intense Communist ground fire today to rescue a U.S. Army lieutenant who eluded North Vietnamese capture during 10 days in nearby jungles.

North Vietnamese forces launched a new attack early today after surrounding the embattled outpost 12 miles from both the Laotian and Cambodian borders.

Lt. Brian M. Thacker, 25, of Hickam AFB, Hawaii, was picked up and rushed to a hospital at Pleiku where military sources said he was in "very weak condition."

The helicopters that picked up Thacker were the first to get to the besieged hilltop outpost in 24 hours. Communist troops surrounding Base 6 threw up an intensive antiaircraft pattern as the five copters swept quickly in then out of the artillery base, Michael Jett, 21, of Mendota, Ill., told UPI Correspondent Robert E. Sullivan at Pleiku.

Thacker with a rifle, singlehandedly covered the withdrawal of Allied troops from Fire Base 6 when it was overrun by Communist troops March 31. He fled into the jungle but managed to walk back into the outpost Thursday after it was back in South Vietnamese hands.

Thacker's rescue was accomplished by a helicopter piloted by Jett. As soon as Thacker was pulled aboard, he was handed a soft drink. He drank it, then fell asleep, exhausted.

North Vietnamese will go to the polls Sunday after a three-year delay... Story on Page 16.

The South Vietnamese command said government troops beat back a fresh assault by the North Vietnamese against the base early today, killing 12 Communist troops. The North Vietnamese also fired two rockets and 16 mortar rounds into the district capital of Dak To, behind the Base 6 lines and dropped mortar rounds into several South Vietnamese outposts around the beleaguered base.

Fire Base 6 serves as a barrier against North Vietnamese designs on Dak To and other central highlands population centers.

In a delayed report, military sources said Communist troops overran Cang Long District Town in the Mekong Delta 60 miles southwest of Saigon March 28 with 57 South Vietnamese civilians and militiamen killed and 63 wounded. They said several hundred homes were destroyed.

The attack on Cang Long occurred the day before Duc Duc District Town, nearly at the other end of South Vietnam and near Da Nang, was overrun by the Communists who killed 43 civilians, wounded 63 and burned more than 1,000 homes, the sources said.

In Saigon, U.S. and South Vietnamese military spokesmen said 3,474 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been killed in fighting for Cambodia's Highway 7, north of Phnom Penh, including 1,784 killed by American air strikes.

The Associated Press reported that U.S. bombers and helicopter gunships kept up their around-the-clock attacks against elements of three North Vietnamese regiments in the region to prevent them from overrunning the South Vietnamese positions.

U.S. B52 Stratofortresses have been dropping tons of explosives on enemy troop concentrations within two or three miles of the mountaintop artillery base, 300 miles north of Saigon near the triborder juncture of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

After the B52s struck Friday, smaller U.S. fighter-bombers and helicopters saturated the jungles around the base with napalm in an effort to burn off the heavy growth giving cover to the North Vietnamese.

Nearly 100 miles to the east, along the Bong Son plain bordering the South China Sea, U.S. paratroopers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade clashed twice with enemy troops. The U.S. Command said 11 enemy were killed, while nine Americans were wounded.

Kienast Quints Ready for That Egg Hunt

The Kienast quints gather around a giant bunny on the lawn of their home in Liberty Corner, N.J., as they get ready for the traditional Easter egg hunt. The tots are (L) Ted, Sara, William Gordon Jr., Abigail and Amy. And the local weatherman has promised fine spring weather for the egg hunts in this area. Easter Sunday promises to be just right for dawn services and the parades of milady's finery. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Pope: Uphold Jerusalem as Holy City

(Combined Wire Services)

VATICAN CITY — Lighted by flickering candles, Pope Paul VI stood with head bowed and eyes closed holding a six-foot cross in front of Rome's ancient Colosseum.

A hush fell over the crowd of thousands and in six languages, narrators told of one of Christianity's key beliefs:

"Jesus is nailed on the Cross."

The Pope moved his lips in prayer. The crowd said the Lord's Prayer and an 80-voice choir swelled out with a hymn in Latin.

The 73-year-old pontiff carried the light wooden cross a few yards, stopped and again bowed his head.

"Jesus dies on the Cross," the narrators said.

This was the core of the "Way Of The Cross" procession Friday night, recalling Jesus' last journey to Calvary and his execution. The Pope carried the Cross for the last third of the way. Cardinal Angelo Dell 'Acqua, his Vicar for Rome, carried it the rest.

After the procession, the Pope made a brief speech in which he called for upholding of Jerusalem as a Holy City. This followed Vatican accusations that Israel is attempting to annex Moslem and Christian Arab parts of the city.

The pontiff said "Christ preached and redeemed the world" in the Holy Land and added it was for this reason "we consider Jerusalem as the Holy City." He said Christian communities of the Holy Land "continue to have need of our spiritual, moral and material aid."

Good Friday in Rome—a normal working day even at the center of Roman Catholicism—was cold and rainy, recalling the Biblical account of darkened skies at the Crucifixion.

But the rain stopped before the Way Of The Cross Procession, unlike last year when the ceremony took place underneath umbrellas.

Meanwhile, in Jerusalem, warm hazy sunshine bathed the Holy City today as Jews celebrated the beginning of their Passover and Christians their holy Saturday.

Jerusalem was crowded with pilgrims and tourists—the largest crowds since the 1967 Mideast war. All hotels, even the small ones in the Arab sector were reported booked.

The de facto Middle East cease-fire and the absence of the usual threats by Arab guerrillas against such celebrations were credited for some of the massive turnout.

Thousands of Jews prayed at the Wailing Wall in the old city, today—the first day of Passover, the feast celebrating the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt.

Other Israelis drove into the countryside for picnics or visited friends and relatives.

The Latin, or Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem, Msgr. G.G. Beltritt, gave the blessing of the baptismal font today in the rotunda of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

This was followed by a pontifical high Mass attended by dozens of the devout.

Catholic Easter celebrations will climax in Jerusalem Sunday morning with a pontifical high Mass sung in the old Crusader Church by the Latin patriarch and in other parish churches by local priests.

Protestant sunrise services will be conducted in various churches and from vantage points overlooking the Holy City Sunday.

Christians prepared today to celebrate the most important date on their church calendar with traditional Easter services across the nation, while Jews observed the second day of Passover.

Passover began at sundown Friday in homes and synagogues with ceremonial dinners and readings of the story of the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt. The dinner, called Seders, will be repeated tonight by Conservative and Orthodox Jews.

Easter Sunday should be a good day for new hats and parades across New York State, according to the National Weather Service.

But the climate for sunrise services may not be so favorable.

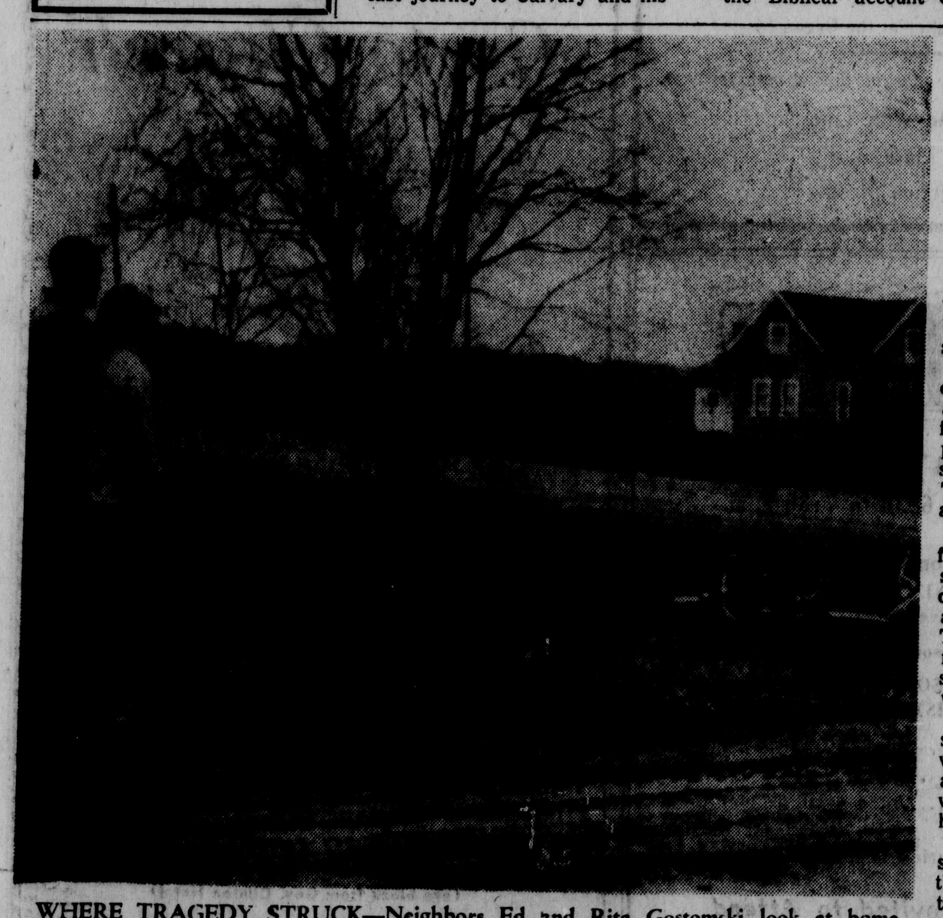

A cold front that started an eastward sweep across the state Friday night will still be on the scene early Sunday, with temperatures in the 20s in the far north to around 30 in the south.

During the day, the mercury is forecast to climb into the 40s and 50s and rain has practically been ruled out in the NWS predictions.

Even the winds are forecast to cooperate with the widebrimmed bonnets and this year's full-skirted dresses. Today's gusts are to subside tomorrow with breezes of less than 20 miles per hour in all areas.

Thousands are expected to attend Easter Sunday sunrise services, although many, including vacationing college students, will observe the holiday in a less traditional manner.

A group of 100 students from 10 Eastern colleges is spending the Easter recess in Nevada, Mo., assisting elderly, handicapped and other persons and conducting a clean-up at a youth center at nearby Metz.

Mother Kissed One Goodbye And Then Killed Three Others

BENNINGTON, N.Y. (UPI)—"Mommy gave me a kiss goodbye and told me to go out. She sent Evelyn, away, too."

Ten-year-old Allen Townsend choked back the tears Friday as he asked a neighbor to call for an ambulance while the report of a .22 caliber revolver sounded four times from the Townsend home near this rural Wyoming County hamlet.

Moments later, state police found two-year-old Craig Townsend, Julie, 3, and Robin, 7, dead in their beds — each with a bullet wound in the temple. Troopers said the children's mother, Lois, 34, apparently shot them and then critically wounded herself.

Mrs. Townsend, a former state mental hospital outpatient, was in the intensive care unit at Genesee Memorial Hospital with a bullet wound in the forehead.

State police said Mrs. Townsend did not leave a note and they could give no reason for the shootings.

Allen and his sister, Evelyn, 8, apparently saw their mother take the pistol from a drawer, troopers said. She then kissed them goodbye, sent them outside barefooted and locked the doors behind them.

Allen walked 300 yards to the home of dairy farmer Ed Gostomski. He found Gostomski's wife, Rita, working in the yard and asked her to call an ambulance.

"He wouldn't tell me what had happened," Mrs. Gostomski said. "He would only say that it was serious and that he needed an ambulance. I asked if I could go to his house and be of help but he said, 'No, the doors are locked.' Then I heard a shot and I took him inside."

Mrs. Gostomski said she called for an ambulance, then telephoned state police as the three other shots sounded. She said she told the troopers "they had better send someone quickly and they said cars were already on the way."

Mrs. Gostomski said the boy would not tell her or state police what had happened, only that his mother had kissed him and his sister and sent them outside.

Mrs. Gostomski said she called Allen's father, Roger, at Greater Buffalo International Airport where he worked as a mechanic for United Airlines.

"I didn't tell him what had happened — I only said there was trouble and he had best come quickly."

Townsend later was at his wife's bedside.

Trooper L.T. Bochynski said police found Craig in his crib in a first-floor bedroom of the family's modest, two-story frame home that was undergoing renovation and expansion.

He said the bodies of the two other dead youngsters were in an upstairs bedroom, where Mrs. Townsend shot herself and fell to the floor with the gun beneath her.

Nab 2 in T-Way Chase

By JON POWERS

MALDEN

A 23-year-old Long Island City man was jailed in lieu of $25,000 bail Friday, and his female companion was released after paying fines totaling $75, as the result of a 25-mile, high-speed auto chase on the New York State Thruway.

The chase began in the northbound lane of the Thruway near the Malden Hot Shoppe, and ended when several state police cars converged on the fleeing auto in Greene County.

Trooper R. J. Reilly of the Kingston station began the chase when he spotted an auto operated by Dorothy Corrar, 23, of Brooklyn, traveling at excessive speeds. Reilly told The Freeman that he chased the late model sedan at speeds exceeding 100 miles per hour.

After the chase ended, a routine check revealed that the car had been stolen in New York City on Thursday. Raymond E. Corkery, 23, of Long Island City was charged with criminal possession of stolen property.

Corkery also was charged with two other felony violations: criminal possession of a forged instrument (a driver's license) and criminal possession of a dangerous instrument (a concealed knife). He also was cited for permitting the unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle and violation of the open container law.

Miss Corrar was cited for speeding, reckless driving, being an unlicensed operator and violating the open container law. She pleaded guilty on all counts before Town of Catskill Justice George Carle and was released after paying her fines.

Corkery was committed to the Greene County Jail in lieu of bail for a hearing Wednesday.

Boy Inherits $20 Million

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — The grandfather of a 6-year-old boy who is to become a multi-millionaire says the youngster is a very good little boy who laughs a lot.

The boy, Donald Chickering Jr., has been named chief beneficiary in his mother's will on probate in Surrogate Court in New York.

Donald is the son of the late Mrs. Marina Maguire Chickering Weiner, heiress to $20 million from her father, a noted financier and industrialist who died in 1966.

The paternal grandfather, George F. Chickering Jr., said Friday was just another play day for Donald, who attends kindergarten when school is in session. But the elder Chickering said his telephone and front door bells ring all day.

The boy's mother reverted to her maiden name, Marina Maguire, after her second divorce. Donald was her son by her first husband, Donald Chickering.

Donald has been living with his grandparents under an informal arrangement his mother had with them.

Miss Maguire, 27, was injured fatally March 16 when she fell from the upper bunk of a jail cell in Portersville, Calif. Authorities said she suffered a ruptured spleen and died later that day in a hospital.

She was arrested the previous day after she allegedly tried to use an expired credit card to pay a motel bill. She was charged with defrauding an innkeeper and possession of a hypodermic needle.

Woodstock Democrats Score Appointment

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock Democratic Committee today criticized the Town Board's recent appointment of Walter VanWagenen to the post of town justice as "irresponsible." John Bonilla, Democratic town chairman, gave the Democrats' position in the following statement:

"The Woodstock Town Board has once more demonstrated the irresponsibility of its actions in the recent appointment to fill the post of town justice vacated by resignation.

"Most cases heard by this judicial officer will be based on complaints brought by local constables and state police. New Town Justice Walter VanWagenen has one son who is a full-time constable on the Woodstock police force. He has another son who is a trooper attached to a local state police barracks. Our other town justice, Rudolph Baumgarten, has a brother who is a full-time constable on the Woodstock police force.

"There is no question but that this recent appointment has compounded an already serious conflict of interest. What defendent, whether innocent or guilty, would want his case heard and decided by a close blood relative of the arresting officer?. Can either of our justices say honestly that he would impartially weigh the testimony of his son or brother against that of another witness? Can either of our justices say honestly that he would not be prejudiced, consciously or unconsciously, by the fact that the testifying officer is closely related to his fellow justice?

"Approximately 2,000 cases come before the town justices in Woodstock every year. What the Woodstock Town Board has done is to create an intolerable situation that could destroy the effectiveness of Woodstock's judicial system. They have already destroyed the confidence of Woodstock voters in their judgement and ability to administer the complex problems that every town faces.

Northern Dutchess Appoints In-Service Education Director

RHINEBECK

Mrs. Aaron Reifler has been named director of In-Service Education at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, according to administrator Michael C. Mazzarella.

MRS. AARON REIFLER

Mrs. Reifler earned her R.N. and B.S. in nursing education degrees from Simmons College, Boston, Mass. She has served as a member of the Army Nurse Corps and as clinical instructor at St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Reifler defines in-service education as on-the-job training and continuing education of all hospital personnel who contribute to total patient care.

"It's a brand new field, a new concept which is being used not only in the medical field, but in industry as well. The basic goal is to motivate each person to the fullest use of his potential," she said.

"In doing this we ensure the best possible care for each patient which has always been our primary objective," she said.

In addition to her nursing career, Mrs. Reifler has had a life long interest in music. She studied voice with Professor Earle Brown, Ciccopee, "for years and years" and has appeared with the local theater groups including the County Players as Anna in "The King and I," and the Hudson Valley Music Theater as Elsa in "The Sound of Music" and Sonia in the "The Merry Widow."

Measles Cases Ahead of '70 in Upstate

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —Measles cases are running three to four times ahead of last year in upstate New York, but there have been far more cases in New York City.

The State Health Department said Friday about 2,000 cases have been reported so far this year in the city, compared to about 1,100 for all of last year.

Upstate the situation is not as serious. So far, 280 cases have been reported, but last year at this time there were only 78.

More than half the cases were reported in Erie County. Saratoga County reported 28 and Orange County, 18.

The department spokesman said that the large number of cases indicated that a significant number of children were not immunized against measles as required by state law. He said about 55 per cent of the cases were in children between the ages of five and nine who should have been immunized.

The number of cases is expected to rise for the next two months and slump off in June, he said.

Ex-General Facing Five Years, $5,000 Fine

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, once the Army's police chief, faces up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine after pleading guilty to soliciting 136 firearms from Chicago police and keeping them for himself.

Sentencing was deferred Friday by U.S. District Court Judge Oren R. Lewis pending a probation officer's report. The 57-year-old former provost marshal general was released on $15,000 personal recognizance bond.

Eight other firearms charges were dismissed at the government's recommendation. Turner had been accused of soliciting 423 firearms, most of them confiscated during 1968 Chicago civil disorders, on the pretense they were to be used for Army training.

Turner, who lives in Springfield, Va., faces trial June 7 on four counts of evading taxes totaling $16,679 for the years 1965 through 1968. A grand jury said he understated his income by $46,647 during those years.

Turner, provost marshal general from 1964 to 1968, served as chief U.S. marshal for five months in 1969 and resigned under Justice Department pressure when he became a central figure in a Senate probe of non-commissioned officers' clubs.

He told the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee he had received about 700 weapons from Chicago and Kansas City police but turned over only half to the Army. The rest, he said, were sold, traded, used for parts or destroyed.

Two of the charges dismissed, alleging theft of government-owned guns, could have resulted in sentences up to 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fines.

Men Beat Off Wolves To Save Youngster's Life

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two men armed only with tree limbs beat back a pack of wild wolves attacking a boy at the San Diego zoo.

The men were credited with saving the life of David Williams, 15, of Palos Verdes Estates in the Los Angeles area.

Young Williams underwent surgery late Thursday and has been listed in satisfactory condition today at Mercy Hospital.

"If the men had not gone to the boy's rescue, I'm afraid the wolves would have killed him," said Dr. Charles Sedwick, zoo veterinarian.

Jim W. Voorhis, 41, of nearby Fallbrook, and William E. Graham, 30, of San Diego, both visitors to the zoo, jumped into the wolves' enclosure when they heard the boy screaming for help.

"He was terribly frightened and had grabbed onto a eucalyptus tree," Voorhis recalled. "The wolves surged around him with their teeth bared. They seemed to be drawn by the blood which drenched his clothing."

The boy's mother, Mary Ann Williams, said her son told her after the attack that he had taken a shortcut along a movable walkway at the zoo and crossed over a fence.

"He said he wasn't aware of anything being in the area," Mrs. Williams said. "He saw one wolf and started to turn away and another wolf attacked his legs"

Voorhis said he jumped into the enclosure from the walkway after seeing the boy being dragged by three wolves who had torn his head, side and left leg.

Literary Robin Hood

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A young man charged with stealing 450 books from public libraries insists he's a literary Robin Hood who "gave 'em away to friends or left them where people would find them."

But police burglary inspectors said Friday that Kurt Kochek, 20, who checked the books out of the library under 13 different names, sold at least 20 of them.

Babysitter Credited With Saving Five

WINGDALE

A 15-year-old babysitter guided five children out of blazing home in this Dutchess County community Friday night.

Nora Doria was babysitting for the Robert McCauley family of Cedar Lane, Wingdale, when a fire broke out in an upstairs bedroom at 9:45 p.m. The young girl battled dense smoke to rescue the children from their bedrooms and then guided them out of the home. She then returned inside the house and phoned the Dover Plains Fire Company.

Dutchess County Sheriff's deputies reported that the home was completely gutted. All furnishings inside were destoyed, it was reported. Police today are trying to determine how the blaze was ignited.

Dutchess County Probes Arson Cases

TOWN OF LA GRANGE

Cases of arson and attempted arson are being investigated today by the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department after a bath house at a private recreation area near Wappingers Falls was destroyed by fire Friday night.

Investigators found a pile of gasoline-soaked combustile materials in the destroyed building. Similar materials were found in an adjoining snack bar, but authorities say that the fire went out by itself.

The building destroyed was located at East Bend Lake, a facility owned by Mrs. Mary Wiseman of Poughkeepsie.

The LaGrange Fire Company responded, but was unable to quell the blaze before the building was gutted.

69 Arrested In Protests of A&P Practices

NEW YORK (AP) — The arrests of 69 demonstrators has brought to more than 100 the number of persons arrested during a continuing protest against alleged discriminatory practices of the A&P food chain.

The protestors, all members or supporters of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, staged demonstrations Friday at the Atlantic and Pacific Co. headquarters in the Graybar Building and at an A&P store on Third Avenue and 32nd Street.

In the Graybar building, one group of 47 persons was charged with trespassing and arrested in the A&P mailroom. Sixty other persons voluntarily left another company's offices on the same floor.

Also charged with trespassing was the group of 22 persons who invaded the A&P store on Third Ave.

Earlier this week, led by the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the SCLC, 45 protestors were arrested during a sit-in at the Graybar building.

Formosa Sees Peking Plot on Sports First

HONG KONG (UPI)—Fifteen American table tennis players walked across a tin-roofed bridge into Communist China today in a visit U.S. officials hoped would help open the Bamboo Curtain to other American groups.

It was the first group of sports participants from the United States in China since the Communists took over the mainland in 1949, although other Americans have visited China under Communism.

As the Americans arrived for their week-long visit at Peking's invitation, the Nationalist Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek on Taiwan described the visit as "a fresh political plot on the part of the Chinese Communists to further infiltrate the Free World."

Arrest Driver After Mishap

KINGSTON

A 42-year-old Highland Training School teacher was arrested by two police agencies Friday following a traffic accident at East Chester Street and Broadway.

According to police, a car operated by Benjamin J. Geer, of 293 Chodikee Lake Road, Highland, reportedly hit a parked car on East Chester Street and left the scene. Police sent out an alarm and later State Trooper R. M. Malloy of the Kingston State Police apprehended Geer near Glasco.

Trooper Malloy cited Geer for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and turned him over to Kingston police who booked the motorist on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Bail was fixed at $200 here pending an appearance in City Court.

The drunken driving charge is scheduled in Town of Ulster Justice's Court on April 21.

The parked vehicle involved in the city mishap was owned by Bernard R. Rinaldo of 50 Lawrenceville Street.

MISS N.Y. STATE — Barbra Joan Lopez, of Yorktown Heights, holds flowers and wears her crown after she was crowned Miss New York State in the New York State Beauty Pageant at Tamarack Lodge, Greenfield Park. The five-foot, seven-inch dark-haired beauty, who measures 35-23-35, will compete in the Miss U.S.A. contest later this year, the winner of which will represent this country in the Miss Universe contest. Barbra is a student at Beaver College, in Pennsylvania, and last year attended the University of Madrid as an exchange student.

Dutchess Woman Charged With Leaving Scene

KINGSTON

Elinor A. Lane, 41, of 14 Seitz Terrace, Poughkeepsie, appeared in City Court Saturday to answer charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident, according to city police.

Police said that the woman was operating her car on Greenkill Avenue Friday night when it swerved and struck an auto owned by Richard Mayo. Police allege that the woman drove off without reporting the incident. She was apprehended by police a short time later.

She was paroled in the custody of her husband for the court appearance.

Firemen Busy On Brush Fires

A true harbinger of spring—the brush fire—kept volunteers busy throughout Ulster County on Friday.

The Ulster County Fire Control reported that seven minor brush blazes were quelled within a four-hour period Friday from West Hurley to Walker Valley.

The first alarm was answered by West Hurley volunteers at 11:10 a.m., and was followed by an 11:45 a.m. alarm in Rifton. Gardiner firefighters doused a grass fire at 12:15 p.m. Glasco firefighters were called out twice within a 20-minute period, with the first alarm coming at 12:39 p.m. Two blazes were reported in Walker Valley between 1 and 3 p.m.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother, Robert J. Sauers, who passed away 10 years ago today, April 10, 1961.

At night the silent stars look down
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps the one we can't forget,
The one we loved so dear.
If we had all the world to give,
We'd give it, yea, and more,
To hear his voice and see his smile
And greet him at the door.

'Cool' Don January Is New Masters Leader

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — You'd have to flip placid-faced Don January inside out to see the lean Texan's excitement over leading the Masters Golf Tournament.

"It doesn't appear that I'm charged up," said the man from Dallas, "but the ole adenaline is flowin' inside . . . just a bubblin'."

The 41-year-old former PGA champion had matching three-under-par 69s in the Masters' opening two days, leading fellow Texan Charlie Coody and spherical Bob Murphy by one shot.

Tom Weiskopf charged in with a 69 Friday to pull within two of the lead with a four-under-par 140 total. Jack Nicklaus' expected assault on the Augusta National course continued to sputter and he was at 141, three behind.

"I set a goal of $65,000 every year," January said. "When I reach it—if it takes five tournaments or 20—I'm through. I'm not strong enough to shoot for $200,000 and who wants to be away from home that long?"

January isn't hard to spot on a golf course. His golf shirt collar is always upturned . . . the way hepcats used to do it in the 1950s.

"My neck is thin-skinned," he explained. "The sun would cook me to a well-done in nine holes, so I shade the neck. I'm not trying to be cool or anything."

January's success on Augusta National's four par-five holes has rocketed the 1967 PGA king into the halfway lead. He was eight under par for two trips around the longest holes with six birdies, an eagle and one par.

The 33-year-old Coody, leader of the opening 18 holes, managed to scramble in with a 73 to stay close to January.

"Some day you eat up the course," said Coody, "and some days it gets you. Today, I was bit a few times."

Coody threatened a runaway with a birdie on the 555-yard second hole, but disaster soon lurked in the piney shadows of the fourth hole. Charlie overclubbed himself on the 220-yarder and found a sand trap, settling for his first bogey of the week.

The fifth was an inter-clubbing mistake—bogey No. 2. Then came No. 6, low point of the miserable skid, when Coody dropped a five-iron to the right of the green and needed two putts from the fringe to get the ball on the smooth surface to finish a double bogey six.

Coody birdied the seventh, bogeyed No. 9 and No. 12 and birdied Nos. 13, 15 and 16 to cap a turbulent afternoon with a 39-34—73.

"When I stood four-over-par today at the 12th," Coody recounted, "I told myself I'd better regroup and shoot some decent golf. Sometimes you get caught up in that swirling wind out there among the pines and don't know which end is up."

Nicklaus was frustrated, not over his three-under-par total of 141, but the fact that it wasn't much better.

"I've thrown away six, seven or perhaps even 10 shots," said the man seeking golf's Big Four in 1971. "If you keep hitting one ball a day in the water and not making any decent-sized putts, you'll never get on top."

Nicklaus' first two days have been similar—a blazing start and nothing much thereafter. He birdied Nos. 1 and 2 Thursday and wound up at two-under 70. Friday, Nicklaus dropped birds on the second and third and his 18-hole total was 71.

Nicklaus' fellow millionaire, Arnold Palmer, saw his usually pipeline driving desert him. "Who says this isn't a driving course," he said. "I've made a potful of bogies in two days and bad driving caused three-quarters of them."

Palmer's 73-72—145 left him tied with defending champion Billy Casper for 17th place, seven blows behind the six-under par 138 total of January. Burly amateur Steve Melnyk of Jacksonville, Fla., stayed within striking distance with a 70 for 143, best non-pro total by six shots.

Murphy might have had the lead except for a dastardly 16th hole.

The former U.S. Amateur champion from Bartow, Fla., took his caddie's advice on the 190-yarder and struck a six-iron into a back sand trap.

"It was the third bad clubbing he's done in two rounds," growled the short, chubby Murphy. "I barely blasted out of the trap and needed three from the fringe for a double bogey five."

Murphy holed an 18-foot putt on the 18th to pull within one at 139 along with Coody.

Fate Is Smiling on Denny

By United Press International

Maybe things are going to fall into place again for Denny McLain.

The controversial righthander, who has been in and out of trouble over the last year, made his debut for the Washington Senators Friday night and came away with a 10-inning, 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

He wasn't the same McLain who won 31 games for the Detroit Tigers in 1968, or even the same guy who won 23 games in 1969. But he did go the distance—something Washington pitchers don't do very often—and that little bit of luck it takes to be a big winner was with him all the way.

Twice the Senators saved him from a defeat or a no decision. In the ninth inning McLain blew a one-run lead when the Yankees racked him for four successive singles and two runs to take a 4-3 lead. The Senators were only two outs away from a defeat in the bottom of the inning when Joe Foy doubled and Elliott Maddox singled to tie the score.

Then in the 10th, Tom McCraw was sent up to bat for McLain and delivered a game-winning homer. The blast gave McLain his first victory since last Aug. 22. He missed most of last season due to a suspension imposed upon him by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for his association with a bookmaking ring.

"I felt super," said McLain. "I felt strong the whole game, even in the ninth when they got me for four singles to tie the game. I made a bad mistake on one of those hits. The others just hit helluva good pitches."

In other American League games, Baltimore edged Detroit, 6-5; Chicago nipped Minnesota, 3-2; and Oakland beat Kansas City, 5-0 in a game called after 5⅓ innings because of rain.

Dave Johnson hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning and drove home the winning run in the eighth with a checked swig ground-out to pace the Orioles to their second consecutive one-run victory. The Orioles, who rallied back from a 4-0 deficit, also got a homer from Boog Powell while Aurelio Rodriguez, another figure in the McLain trade, homered for Detroit.

Pinch-hitter Rich McKinney singled home Rich Morales with two out in the ninth inning to pace the White Sox to their third victory in a row. A record opening day crowd of 43,253 turned out for the White Sox' home opener.

Southpaw Vida Blue tied an Oakland team record by striking out 13 batters although he pitched only six innings before rain halted proceedings. Blue allowed the Royals just three hits and walked two in evening his record at 1-1.

Oakland collected only two hits for the game and scored all five of its runs in the second inning with the aid of only one safety, a two-run single by Joe Rudi. Loser Jim Rookr walked the first four batters in the inning and third baseman Paul Schaal committed an error prior to Rudi's single. The final run came home on Reggie Jackson's sacrifice fly.

Collision Course For Knicks, Bucks

By United Press International

The architects who built division championships for the Milwaukee Bucks and New York Knicks are blueprinting their meeting in the National Basketball Association Playoff Finals.

Lew Alcindor, the league's leading scorer, tallied 32 points Friday night in leading the Bucks to an easy 106-85 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers and a 1-0 lead in their Western Conference finals.

Dick Barnett, "Mr. Moneyman" of the Knicks, netted 29 points with some slick outside shooting Friday afternoon as New York routed the Baltimore Bullets, 107-88, for a 2-0 margin in their Best-of-Seven Eastern Conference Playoff Final Series.

Actually, Milwaukee had to rally from a 44-43 halftime deficit to take Los Angeles in their playoff opener as the Lakers attempted a slowdown style of play designed to curtail the Bucks' fast break.

Alcindor countered this measure by scoring 20 points in the first half and scored his remaining points in the third quarter as Milwaukee mounted an attack that ripped the Los Angeles defense. Jon McGlocklin, who finished with 18 points, netted 12 in the third stanza. The Bucks completed the job by outscoring Los Angeles, 34-19, in the final period.

"L.A. forced us into their slowdown style of play in the first half and this can lull you to sleep," commented Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello. "But Jon's shooting picked us up in the second half and when he got going, the whole team started shooting."

The Lakers, surviving the first round series with Chicago despite the absence of injured Jerry West, were led by Wilt Chamberlain's 22 points.

With Gus Johnson still sidelined by an injured knee and Earl Monroe and Kevin Loughery benched early in the fourth quarter, because of ailments, Baltimore was hard-pressed to say with the Knicks.

The Bullets turned in a commendable job in the first half as they held New York to a 48-48 standoff, but the Knicks then took charge as their backcourt duo of Barnett and Walt Frazier led a second half rout. Frazier finished with 23 points.

Monroe, held to only 10 points after a 29-point opening game effort, limped off the floor with a twisted ankle. Loughery, suffering from a bruised right heel, asked for relief when the pain-killing injection he received prior to the game wore off and he couldn't continue.

John Tresvant took up the scoring slack with 20 points and Fred Carter had 15.

"Nobody seemed to want the game," said Frazier of the haphazard third period play. "Then we got a few steals that were turned into easy baskets and it proved demoralizing for Baltimore."

The Knicks, however, couldn't break away until they started a 16-2 surge midway in the fourth quarter that carried them from an 81-75 lead to an insurmountable 97-77 margin in a 4:48 stretch.

Squires Five Takes Lead

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The New York Nets return to their home country today a little worse for wear and with dim prospects for salvaging their playoff series with the Virginia Squires in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

The Squires bounced the Nets, 127-124, out of their home court Friday night, and the Nets lost more than the game.

New York playmaker Bill Melchionni suffered a torn leg tendon in the contest and is not expected to see action in tonight's sixth series game in the Felt Forum in New York City.

Virginia now leads the series three games to two.

In the other series, Indiana beat Memphis in four games and Utah beat Texas, also in four games. Kentucky and the Floridians are 2-2 in their series, and resume today in Kentucky.

The Squires blew a 13-point third quarter lead in Friday's game, but returned in the final chapter behind Mike Barrett (30 points), Ray Scott (28) and George Carter (28) to erase a New York lead and sew up the victory.

"I'm sure Melchionni's injury is a temendous loss for the Nets," said Virginia Coach Al Bianchi. "Melchionni runs their offense. Without him they are hurting."

Melchionni tore the tendon when he hit the floor on a jump shot attempt late in the third quarter of the game.

Bianchi, jubilant after the Squires' win, said, "This was a must win for us. We had to keep that home court advantage."

The Squires won the first two games of the series on another of their home courts in Hampton, but dropped the next two on the Nets' home court in Hempstead, N.Y.

A New York win tonight would send the series back to Norfolk on Monday for the deciding contest.

Betting Action Remains Brisk

NEW YORK (UPI) — Easter-Passover holidays failed to curtail betting in New York City's new off-track betting corporation.

"Brisk and active" betting was reported Friday as the city's two legalized OTB parlors entered into their second day of operation. Grand Central Terminal and Forest Hills, Queens, windows reported good turnouts, and Harold Samuels, the corporation's president, reported he was ecstatic over the massive turnouts on Thursday.

Because of the unexpectedly high volume of betting on opening day, Samuels said some revisions would be made in OTB's operations, including moving of payoff windows to another Grand Central location and opening up more betting windows.

A total of $77,352 was bet at the two offtrack parlors, compared to $66,098 on opening day.

Abraham Silverman, a cab driver, was the first better to cash in an offtrack winner, and Samuels was on hand to congratulate him. Silverman collected $57.60 for a $2 daily double wager.

A spokesman for Samuels said that while there were still long waiting lines, "the waits were not as long. We improved the service a little bit."

Samuels also said that as soon as qualified clerks could be trained, an additional 100 planned betting parlors were set to go into operation.

As of the moment, only Roosevelt Raceway, a trotters track, is a participant in the operation, but Samuels expressed confidence that other tracks would be following suit, "once they know we are here to stay."

Billie King Plays Today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Top seeded Billie Jean King and Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale play today in the semifinals of the $15,000 Virginia Slims Masters Tennis Tournament.

In the other semifinal match Miss Rosemary Casals, seeded second, faces Miss Judy Heldman of New York.

The winner of Sunday's final receives $2,000.

Miss Evert, a 16-year-old high school student, downed Judy Alvarez of Tampa, Fla., 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Casals dropped the first set of her match Friday with another Australian contender, Judy Dalton 5-7. But she rallied for wins 6-4, 6-4 in the final two sets.

Allen Hurts Dodgers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was the 1971 opening at Dodger Stadium before a wildly enthusiastic crowd and the first ball struck by a visiting batter was misplayed by the Los Angeles leftfielder.

Isn't that Rich? That's right—that's Richie Allen.

Allen, never a Golden Glove winner in his eight-year career, showed the hometown fans why as his miscue triggered three unearned San Diego runs in the first inning. And the Padres didn't quit there, going on to a 6-3 victory.

The fans gave Allen a long ovation when he went out to start the game and didn't say boo after that—as was the custom of his Bronx-cheering tormentors in Philadelphia.

"I didn't have any special reaction to the ovation," said Allen. "To tell the truth, I didn't even hear it. I was thinking of only one thing — hitting the ball."

Oh yes, that's another thing.

Allen, acquired from St. Louis to add long-ball swat, isn't doing his real thing, either. After going 0-for-7 this season, Allen got his first hit in a Dodger suit—a 60-foot infield roller in the sixth.

Dodger shortstop Maury Wills defended Richie's first-inning boo-boo.

"We simply didn't communicate," said Wills. "The fans were yelling and I didn't realize until it was too late Richie was telling me to take the ball."

Despite the excuse, it was a bad scene all around for the 31,413 faithful who were expecting better things from their new-look, power-packed Dodgers.

After the misplay of Dave Campbell's fly ball, Larry Stahl followed with an RBI single, Ed Spezio knocked in another with a bases-full ground out and Chris Cannizzaro drove in the third run with another safety.

It didn't matter that Los Angeles came back with two runs in its half of the first, because Nate Colbert chased Dodger ace Bill Singer with a bases-clearing double in the second.

Only two other games were played in the National League. Chicago beat Houston 6-0 and Pittsburgh belted Atlanta 8-2.

Pittsburgh also spoiled Atlanta's home opener as Willie Stargell delivered a two-run home run and Jack Hernandez capped a four-run fifth with a two-run double.

There was some pitching fireworks to go along with the hitting as the Pirates' Bob Moose and the Braves' Ron Herbel exchanged shots in a minor bean ball war.

After Stargell's homer, Herbel hit Al Oliver with a pitch. In the next inning, Moose turned on Ralph Garr, brushing him back twice.

"I didn't think he'd throw at me once, let alone twice," said Garr. "I think he nicked me the second time, but I don't blame him. It's just a matter of protecting his own hitters."

After the second throw, umpire Vic Stello walked toward the mound and warned Moose that he was too close for comfort.

"I don't know if he fined me, all he did was come out and point," said Moose, "but if he did, I've lost 50 better than that."

Moose had to cover the bag on a Garr tap to the right side but said he "wasn't worried" about a possible collision. There wasn't any, anyway.

Moose, stung for 11 hits, picked up the victory with ninth inning relief help from Dave Giusti as the undefeated Pirates won their third game.

Veteran Milt Pappas shackled Houston with three singles and Chicago unloaded a six-run second inning off Tom Griffin. Only once did Pappas allow two runners on base in the same inning.

Griffin came unraveled at the start of the second, issuing a walk and hitting another batter. J.C. Martin singled home the first run and Pappas doubled to make it 2-0. Don Kessinger singled in another tally, Glenn Beckert got the fourth run home with a fielder's choice and Joe Pepitone knocked in the closing two runs with a double.

BALTIMORE (6)

A millenium will have been achieved when hunters and fishermen can agree on a single subject. For example, opening date for the trout season in New York State.

This diversity of opinion, a rare willingness to voice their opinions and the resolute firmness with which they back them up always makes them good copy, as we say in the trade.

A week ago we quoted several noted anglers as saying they favored a later starting date — like April 15. They gave the usual reasons — cold weather, high, roily streams, snow water and inability to get proper bait.

* * * * *

It's not so, writes Frank L. Miller of Hurley. Miller said he's not a writer of letters to the editor, but felt compelled to disagree with those we quoted.

"The question is — which trout men?" he asked. "Most of your real trout fishermen welcome the tough fight that the elements give them early in the season. Only the purists — the fly fishermen who have lots of leisure time — will talk up a later opening."

Miller pointed out that over the past several years he, and many like him, are able to get out only a dozen or less times during the season. "The shorter season would mean less fishing for us. We have work, families and other responsibilities."

Not all anglers seem to agree with Miller's position that the rainbow spawning is nearly over "when our season starts." And, he says, the browns are barely starting their spawning season when Sept. 30 arrives.

* * * * *

"I think the opening date of April should stay as it is," he says. "It gives the fishermen something to do after a long winter hiatus and I don't think it affects the spawning.

"My feeling is that a majority of the members of the Federation also prefer the present April 1 date. After all, we've had it for 20 years and I see no real reason to change it."

HENRY (SONNY) BARNES, one of the area's canniest anglers, offered a solid dissent. "I'd like to see the opening date set back to April 15," says Sonny. "It's just too cold, streams are too high and there is too much snow water for good fishing."

Barnes feels rainbows should have more chance to spawn. "I don't think a later start would affect the fishermen's chances," he added. "Summer trout fishing is good in this part of the country."

Sonny also favors a May 1 date for opening of the pike season. He said his experience has been that the good trout streams around Chichester and Lanesville are too cold and buried in a foot of snow.

RAY DELAVAN, whose piscatorial skills cover both the trout streams and the Hudson River species, is in that group that believes the April 1 opening doesn't give the rainbows enough time to spawn. "They are still loaded with eggs and can't make it over the dividing weir," he says.

"If you check that area after a day's fishing, you'll find thousands of eggs all over the place," Delavan points out. "Two weeks later these conditions wouldn't exist and fishing would be a lot better. That would still leave plenty of time for good fishing."

NICK MAURO, a trapshooting expert who does most of his fishing in the north, feels April 1 is ideal. "The weather is the determining factor, of course. If it's an early spring, you get an early run. Last year the run came early and the fishermen missed it."

Robert Saehloff, one of the major forces in the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club, revealed himself as a strictly warmer weather man.

"It's just too cold, the streams are too high and general conditions too wet," he said emphatically.

"The weather simply isn't conducive for enjoying fishing and that, I think, is the name of the game. If the hardy species like that April 1 date, it's alright with me, but I like to fish in comfort."

RIO RESERVOIR, which is approximately 12 miles southeast of Monticello off County Road 43 south of Fowlersville, is open for public access through May 26th when the access will be prohibited until Sept. 8. At that time the area will re-open and stay open until the trout season ends on Sept. 30.

Parking area boat access sites have been constructed at two locations along the reservoir and provide access for 20 cars. Parking areas for six cars for shoreline fishing only have been designated at the upper end of the impoundment.

The impoundment should provide some excellent fishing for not only brown and rainbow trout but also panfish, bullheads and smallmouth bass when in season.

However, snow and ice conditions at this time of the year make boat access impossible and shoreline fishing quite difficult. Fishermen planning a trip to this area would be well advised to wait until at least the middle of the month of April when most of the snow and ice should be gone.

Baseball—Game of Statistics

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

It couldn't have been written any better.

Here was Willie Mays, soon to be 40-year-old slugger of the San Francisco Giants, stepping into the batter's box.

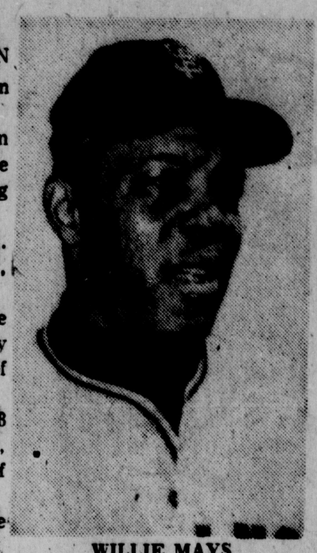

The site: San Diego Stadium. The occasion: Opening Day, 1971.

On the mound for the hometown Padres a husky fastballer Tom Phoebus, late of the Baltimore Orioles.

Willie Mays, the man with 628 home runs. Sey Hey Willie, closest to the haunting 714 of Babe Ruth.

Pheobus throws and Willie Swings.

Could Willie Mays really have driven a home run in his first at bat of the season? Yes! And what a way to start! A shot in the arm for the old man certainly, but more importantly, an instant boost for the ancient sport.

WILLIE MAYS

Somehow baseball has survived year after year for more than a century. But it's dying, they say. Too slow. No color. No action.

And then along comes a Willie Mays. A home run his first time up. Then another the next night. And still another in game three — Willie has 631 and the debates start anew.

"Can Willie do it?"

"At this rate he'll hit 50."

"At this rate he'll hit 162 you mean."

"What about Aaron, he hit one the other day and has 593. And he'll play longer than Willie."

On and on. The baseball buffs quote record after record. Obscure fact after obscure fact. Who else but a baseball fan can tell you Jerry Grote's lifetime batting average (it's 237, by the way)?

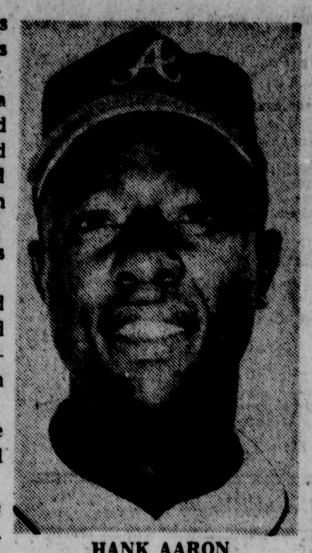

Yes, and who else but a diamond nut will get so involved when a Ron Swoboda, noted more for dropped fly balls and unexcused trips to the john during games, is traded?

No other sport has followers quite like baseball's.

Sure, the football, hockey, and basketball crowds are large and still growing and interest extends to well after the season is over.

But for some reason the stove is always hottest when baseball talk is thrown into the burner.

Maybe the reason is the statistics. Batting averages. Homers by a third baseman. Doubles by a right handed left fielder against the Fenway park wall on Sunday.

HANK AARON

You name it, baseball has a record for it, and fans spend hours pouring over decimals eating it all up.

Best 1970 National League team in doubleheaders? Philadelphia, 17-11.

Toughest National Leaguer to strike out last season? Matty Alou, just 18 K's in 718 plate appearances (brother Jesus was runner-up).

Most hits, one game, one player in the American League last year? Seven by Cesar Gutierrez of Detroit.

Tired yet? Not if you're a baseball fan. Here are some more:

Top American League pinch hitter in '71? Ken Donaldson of Oakland with a .462 average.

Toughest National Leaguer to double up? Bobby Bonds of the Giants, who hit into just six double plays, or one every 110.50 times at bat.

National League pitcher with the best control last season? Ferguson Jenkins of the Cubs with 1.73 walks per nine inning game.

Best extra inning club in the NL last year? The Reds, 7-3.

1970 American League spring training leader? The Yanks, 18-9.

1971 American League spring training cellar dweller: The Yanks, 8-23.

American League night game leaders last season? Baltimore, 72-35.

And now it's a new season with new records, more facts, figures, and slide rule notations.

Enjoy, baseball fans, enjoy.

Over-30 Title To Hanstein's

KINGSTON

Bill Fitzgerald scored 24 points as Hanstein's got by Esposito's, 52-44, to win the Over-30 Basketball League championship game, Thursday at Municipal Auditorium.

The closely contested game was in doubt throughout as Hanstein's managed to hold a constant lead but never could throw Esposito's off the trail.

The winners led 12-11 after one quarter; 28-25 at the half; and 41-36 after three periods.

Hanstein's used the minimum of five men for the contest. Mike Perry followed Fitzzgerald for the Insurancemen with 15 points.

Clay-Liston Bout Ruled as Illegal

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Friday the 1964 world championship heavyweight boxing match between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston in Miami was held in violation of Florida law.

Therefore, the court said, Inter - Continental Promotions, Inc., has no legal claim on the estate of the late William B. MacDonald Jr., a Miami promoter who lost money on the fight and failed to pay off on a contract with Inter-Continental.

The court said the purported sponsorship of the fight by a Miami post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was no more than a ruse aimed at circumventing the Florida fight law.

The law says no fight can be held for profit, but matches can be promoted under the auspices of certain civic or charitable organizations, including the VFW.

The fight contract called for Inter-Continental to produce Clay and Liston for the match in return for $650,000 from MacDonald. MacDonald was to get the live gate proceeds, while Inter-Continental was to retain television, radio and movie rights.

MacDonald was responsible for all arrangements for staging and promoting the fight.

"The gate receipts of only $225,000, however, fell far short of MacDonald's expectations and the considerations he had agreed to pay for those rights," the court said.

MacDonald turned the gate over to Inter-Continental, which then sued him for the balance of the $625,000.

The circuit court disagreed.

"The evidence is quiet clear that the VFW had nothing whatsoever to do with holding, staging or conducting the contest and that the parties to the contract were well aware of that fact," the appeals court said.

The decision cited testimony that Post 3556 of the VFW was paid $500 for the use of its name as sponsor of the fight.

State U Gives Scholarship To Soccer Ace

NEW PALTZ

The news concerning money eminating from New Paltz State's athletic department hasn't been very pleasant of late, but at least one bright spot opened up this week.

Tsegaye Taye, a freshman from Ethiopia, and top-notch forward on the Hawk soccer team, was awarded a special $300 scholarship by the college's Alumni Association.

Taye, an economics major, was selected on the basis of his excellence both in the sport and in academics.

College president John J. Neumaier presented the award and thanked the alumni Association for its "generosity in making the gift possible."

The Association has given $1,500 in scholarships to five New Paltz students during the current academic year. The one to Taye was the first awarded for speical service in a particular field.

Taye was one of the key performers in New Patlz's 14-5-1 record, the best in its history, and fourth place showing in the NAIA tournament last December.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 10, 1971

Cancer Crusade

April is Cancer Control Month when crusaders throughout the country will be receiving funds to advance the conquest of this dread disease. Some 1,500 Cancer Crusaders and leaders in the City of Kingston and the 20 townships of Ulster County will be soliciting financial support to meet their $62,000 goal.

Ulster County residents always have responded to this vital appeal conducted by their neighbors, who have been judged by the New York State Division as one of the finest group of volunteer workers in the state. The local unit on the basis of the 1970 crusade and services won seven awards for excellence in fund-raising, public information, campaign publicity, exceeding its goal and special services. This is a tribute to the efforts of these volunteers and to the people of the community in the fight against cancer.

Funds are needed for research in many areas of cancer including fatal skin cancer, which strikes about one in every 100,000 Americans and kills about 1,000 persons a year. This type of cancer is now being purged. The patient is treated by being bathed with a weak solution of nitrogen mustard, a gas used offensively in World War I.

More than a half century after Doughboys and their enemy choked on the mustard gas, Dr. Eugene Van Scott said that all 36 patients treated during the past two years with the solution are still alive and 20 are totally free of the disease. While two years is not long enough to determine if the treatment is a cure, Dr. Van Scott says it now seems feasible that complete cures may be achievable.

Until now, the course of the skin cancer has been predictable. It starts as a skin rash, develops into tumors in the body and within three years moves into the lymph nodes, which spread the cancer throughout the body and normally kill the patient in eight years.

Dr. Van Scott is professor of dermatology at Temple University School of Medicine and was formerly an official at the National Cancer Institute. After 15 years of trying, he is confident he has stumbled on a cure, though he is not sure why the treatment works or how long the treatment needs to be continued.

Research, which must be intensified and channeled, requires financial support and we know that Ulster County residents again will take this opportunity to share in this great humanitarian effort by helping themselves and others with a generous contribution.

Corporate Social Auditors

General James M. Gavin, board chairman and chief executive officer of Arthur D. Little, Inc., a Boston-based engineering and consulting firm, said his message to business executives is to make their companies more "sensitive" to the pressures of social needs. To do this, he urged firms to hire "social auditors."

In the same way that a corporation must, under law, have its financial records audited by outside accountants, he said, it should seek objective, periodic surveys of its performance on fair employment practices, anti-pollutio and other public services activities.

A fair number of investors now want to know what a company is doing about pollution before they'll put their money in, Gavin said. He predicted that those who do will make more money for their stockholders, that industry should take the lead in creating a better life.

The general retired in 1958 after 33 years in military service. He was chief of research and development for the Army. He tried hard to get the United States into orbit before the Russians. The first Sputnik was a "heartbreaker" for him. Today, he would be inclined to put an orbital laboratory around the earth and send "instrument trips" to the planets, but he said "the real problems are on earth for the next 10 years."

Calling himself a hawk, he wants the country to be strong. Because it can be much stronger vis-a-vis the Soviets in terms of our economy, he would emphasize more economic build-up now.

Greenery planted around homes is one of the "most effective fighters of pollution in existence," according to the American Association of Nurserymen. Abundant greenery will purify the air and trap dust, fight smog, abate noise, and create restful environments. Individual citizens, each doing his own share, can make a massive effect here for our survival.

A Maryland Legion Post voted unanimously to issue a membership application to anyone "regardless of race, creed, color or national origin," following charges of racial discrimination by a black soldier stationed near the post. If good enough to die for us, a man should be good enough for our veterans' organizations.

Federal district courts in Kansas will use 6-member juries in civil cases beginning in June, to expedite trials and save money. A 6-member jury should function as effectively as 12, perhaps more effectively, and certainly more speedily in the selection at least.

Always Busy

David Lawrence Says
Economics—Not War—Likely To Be Major Political Issue

WASHINGTON — Whoever devised the plan for the gradual withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam—and it probably was Secretary Melvin Laird of the Defense Department—certainly achieved a public relations feat of widespread importance. Only two years ago, there were 543,400 American servicemen in Southeast Asia, and now the total has gone below 300,000 for the first time since August 1966. It may be as low as 284,000 by May 1 of this year.

The schedule has been applied primarily to ground combat units, and President Nixon is expected to maintain a withdrawal rate to average between 15,000 and 20,000 men a month until the total American force is only about 50,000. The psychological effect of the steady flow of American troops back home has been remarkable. It has discouraged much of the anti-war sentiment in this country.

While a volunteer army is not yet a certainty, a relatively small number of men will be drafted in the coming months. Most of them will not go to Vietnam, since the United States is withdrawing regular troops from other parts of the world and may send them to Southeast Asia. The Defense Department is convinced the South Vietnamese army can be relied upon to defend its country with the aid of air power from the United States and certain helicopter and artillery assistance.

If the American forces in Vietnam have been reduced to about 50,000 by midsummer of 1972, when the presidential campaign here will be under way, this ought to remove the Vietnam War as the major political issue that it has been for the last few years.

There is also the possibility that the North Vietnamese by mid-1972 may come to the conclusion that they can make a peace settlement and release the prisoners of war, all of which could redound to the benefit of the Nixon Administration. This, however, is not really anticipated, as the Hanoi government apparently feels that the longer it waits, the more concessions can be exacted from the United States, especially under a new administration if one should be chosen.

The chances are that the outcome of the national political campaign in America next year will not be influenced greatly by the Vietnam War but by economic conditions in this country. There are some economists or businessmen or stock-market experts or bankers who are absolutely sure that the United States will have achieved substantial economic recovery by the middle of 1972. But others note that a and that serious unemployment appears to cloud the prospects of further improvement.

The administration is trying hard to find ways to give more funds to the states and cities in the hope that jobs will be created. The word coming from the industrial side, on the other hand, is that, with the costs of production so high, additional measures will have to be taken by the federal government before the economy begins to show signs of real expansion.

Meanwhile, many companies that lost heavily in 1970 and are again in the red in 1971 are confronted with increasing costs and diminishing income from sales. The government itself doesn't hesitate to talk of possible regulations which add to the operating expenses of numerous businesses.

The net result is a feeling of discouragement and a belief that the administration has failed to recognize the plight of the industries whose leading companies as well as marginal competitors are facing bigger losses than they have encountered in their history—largely due to high labor costs arbitrarily imposed under threats of strikes.

There is much talk in Washington about a tax cut or tax advantages through investment credits. These would mean less and less revenue for the federal government and an increase in the total deficit. Certainly inflation is not going to be curbed if the federal deficit for fiscal year 1972 should break all records. Tax-cutting is about the only solution one hears on Capitol Hill nowadays, despite the fact that it might mean the value of the dollar could be depreciated still further and inflation could be continued at a faster pace.

Jack Anderson Says
Hoover's Men Shadowed At Least Four Congressmen

WASHINGTON — The redoubtable J. Edgar Hoover was straining the truth a bit when he told Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott this week that no Member of Congress has been under FBI surveillance.

Competent sources inside the FBI tell us that G-men have shadowed at least four Congressmen. They are:

The late Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American - Labor, N.Y., auspected of communist ties; ex-Rep. Roland Libonati, D-Ill., suspected of Mafia connections; Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., suspected of Mafia associations; and Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., who was kept under FBI surveillance briefly to protect him from a blackmail attempt.

We were unable to confirm House Democratic Leader Hale Bogg's charge that the FBI has tapped congressional phones. But we have established that several Members of Congress, including Boggs, have been investigated by the FBI as the result of electronic eavesdropping.

Boggs was one of several legislators whose names were picked up on wiretaps during the FBI's investigation of fixer Nathan Voloshen and ex-House aide Martin Sweig. The FBI subsequently checked into Boggs's role in helping Baltimore contractor Victor Frenkil get the contract for constructing a House garage.

House GOP leader Gerald Ford, who leaped to the House floor to defend Hoover from Boggs's charges, has been caught up himself in more than one FBI investigation.

Ford Fingered

In the Voloshen-Sweig case, the FBI learned that a third member of their fixit team, Robert Winterberger, sometimes operated out of Ford's office.

Earlier, the FBI bug in lobbyist Fred Black's hotel suite picked up a telephone conversation between AVCO's Earl "Red" Blaik and Ford. FBI agents, checking on the monitored conversation, found that Blaik had enlisted Ford's aid in preventing a probe of an AVCO defense contract and that Ford occasionally had hitched free rides on AVCO planes.

The FBI also overheard Black make a breakfast date over the telephone with Oklahoma's Rep. Carl Albert and ex-Sen. Mike Monroney. Agents hustled up to Capitol Hill next morning, searched in vain for Black's car and reported to Hoover: "WFO (Washington Field Office) will be alert for any information which would indicate Black did or did not keep his appointment with Sen. Mike Monroney and Rep. Carl Albert."

Albert, is now House Speaker and works closely with Boggs.

Listening devices have also been used in the investigations of Libonati, Gallagher and other Members of Congress. It would be difficult to prove, however, that wiretaps have actually been installed on congressional phones.

Ex-Sen. Edward Long, D-Mo., who conducted a Senate investigation of eavesdropping, told us that his electronic experts had made a sweep of Senate corridors and had picked up a strong indication that the offices of ex-Senators Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., were bugged. A later thorough search of their offices, however, failed to uncover the listening devices.

Nixon's Summaries

President Nixon charged in his TV talk with Howard K. Smith that the media had given a distorted picture of the Laos invasion. His view was based, the President said, upon a two-week summary of newspaper and television coverage.

Afterward, press secretary Ron Ziegler explained that the President was referring to the regular news digests he receives every day. Reporters asked to see the digests for themselves, but Ziegler turned them down.

We have now obtained access to some of these digests, which boil down the daily press reports into succinct, easy-to-read capsules. Seldom is a news story allotted more than a brief paragraph.

The press coverage of the Laos invasion usually was summarized in one or two typewritten pages of short items. White House aide Pat Buchanan, who prepares the digests, selects both favorable and critical stories to compress for presidential reading.

But he seems to favor stories supporting Nixon. The digests we saw at least, don't show any serious press distortion of the Laos invasion.

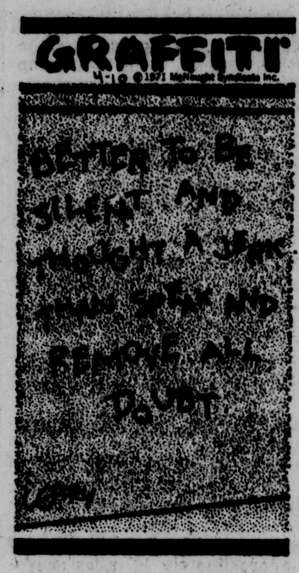

The digest for March 23, 1971, for example, began with this item:

"The US command indicated the two-day air strikes on NVN were highly successful saying pilots destroyed three missile sites, touching off 100 explosions."

The next items reported: "US crews manning the fleet of 600 helicopters which supported SVN's Laos offensive began withdrawing from Khe Sanh as the campaign neared its end. Final units in the Saigon task force retreated under heavy communist fire."

Next: "US helicopter gunships battling in Laos proved for the first time they are more than a match for hostile tanks, said an army officer just back from the war zone. Even more important, said Lt. Col. Robert Molinelli, U.S. helicopter pilots over Laos met the heaviest antiaircraft fire we have ever encountered and proved they could survive it."

The daily digest devoted more space, in fact, to the coverage of Nixon's TV appearance with Smith than to the coverage of the Laos fighting. After four longer-than-usual paragraphs on the TV show, the digest concluded: "ABC estimated that between 9 million and 10 million people watched RN on TV."

Japan Is Playing Big Roll In Stabilizing Asian Countries

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Not too many years after World War II, a good many experts on world economics were saying, a little dreamily, that recovering Japan should be the chief building force in a newly energized, aspiring Asia.

It didn't happen then. Now that it is occuring, few people in an America preoccupied with Vietnam are paying any attention. Yet Japan's advances in aid to and trade with Asian lands are of immense significance.

Right now the Japanese are contributing somewhere in the range of $1.5 billion yearly in aid to other Asian countries, this drawn from their spectacularly rising Gross National Product.

A few weeks ago in San Francisco, Japan's ambassador to the United States, H.E. Nobuhiko Ushiba, predicted that his country's economic assistance to its Asian neighbors would be quadrupled to about $4 billion yearly by 1975. That would roughly equal present U.S. foreign economic aid and amount to one per cent of Japan's GNP.

As for trade, Japan today is buying more than $5 billion in products annually from the Asian nations alone.

The growth of their sales to Japan substantially exceeds their over-all trade expansion.

Examples: In the 1958-68 decade, Korea's exports to Japan multiplied 10 times. Taiwan's exports to the Japanese doubled and so did Malaysia's. Thailand's went up seven times, Indonesia's six. India's and those of the Philippines increased four times.

As an important aside, it should be noted that Australia, on Asia's fringes, now finds Japan its best customer. In 1960, only a quarter of Australia's trade was with Asia. Today the proportion is 50 per cent, and most is with the Japanese (nearly $1 billion in exports).

Some of Japan's assistance to outsiders, not only in Asia but Australia, Latin America and elsewhere is unquestionably for resources development which can feed back to help Japan's own growth. In Australia, for instance, the Japanese are helping to finance new mining for iron ore they need to support Japan's growth in steel.

Yet the benefit to the aided Asian and other lands is major, lifting many toward a fairly solid industrial base for the first time.

It is estimated that in Korea the Japanese have invested in the development of more than 100 industrial plants, in the textile, electrical, chemical and other fields.

A Japanese firm built in Malaysia the first integrated steel works in Southeast Asia. Japan also has invested heavily in other jointly owned Malaysian enterprises for production of tires, automobiles, metallurgical products, textiles, plywood, sugar and other items.

Singapore's big shipbuilding and repair yard is Japanese-built, as is its automobile assembly plant and its electronics plant.

East Pakistan has a Japanese-built petro-chemical works under construction. The Japanese likewise have put up major dams and hydroelectric projects in Taiwan, South Vietnam, Burma and Indonesia.

The roster of these investment and development projects is very long and still growing.

Japan today is not only the world's third largest industrial nation after the United States and Russia. It is THE economic power in Asia, a powerful force for useful growth—and for stability.

There are, inevitably, dark patches. Japan's dominance over Asia in the World War II era is remembered, and fears of new domination are stirred. Japan seeks to calm them by handling more of its foreign aid through multinational agencies.

Furthermore, Japan has miraculously but perilously financed most of its own industrial and trade growth. Working margins in the field of capital are thin, a threat to its future as an Asian building force.

Henry J. Taylor Says
Communists Are Atheists

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Immortal Michelangelo designed St. Peter's in Rome to celebrate Easter. His concept was a jubilant fortress of faith, bright and dazzling in the spirit of "Hallelujah!" and dedicated to the reassuring Resurrection of the Lord.

Every church: our harbor.

But go, instead, to Moscow. Enter Red Square. On the rough, dusky wall joining the Kremlin and the Moscow Historical Museum you will see a plaque: "Religion is the opuim of the masses."

This famous saying by Lenin is as embedded in Communist minds as in that wall. To kill religion is fundamental in Communist doctrine. Godlessness is basic.

Lent is from the good old Anglo-Saxon word meaning spring and presages the joyous festival of Resurrection Day on Easter. Some Russian people celebrate another-dated Easter. They are not atheists. They are a very religious people There are four women for every three men in the Soviet Union and the women, particularly the older women, are especially devout. But every member of the Communist party in Russia, here or anywhere is an atheist—or by Communist law he could not be a Communist. And 11 million Communists—that's all—control more than 228 million non-Communists in Russia.

The 11 million are the Herrenvolk. The 228 million must do as told. And Communist officialdom attacks religion as if it were all worked out on a general staff sand table.

In Moscow about 60 Russian Orthodox Catholic churches are open. Ordinary Russians are allowed to attend them. But the KGB secret police expands its surveillance through its system of Communist party block watchers. These myrmidons earn KGB credits by their zealousness in secretly reporting on neighbors. And all Russians know benefits accrue for a "good record" for not—not—going to church. A block warden often stands at a church door checking those who attend.

Religious instruction perpetuates the church and the people's faith in God. Accordingly, it is prohibited. This is the Communists' throat hold on the future. Even teaching sacred organ music is prohibited. The purpose is to coast the religious nation out of religion as the youth come along. The age level of the parishoners gets older and older.

The Central Labor Office, Commissar Yuri V. Andropov commanding, often assigns additional jobs, physically easy or physically hard, to "satisfactory" and "unsatisfactory" Russian Orthodox priests and experts further control this way. The Labor Office also controls the restaffing of dioceses. It refuses permission to restaff selected ones. The temple of worship is thus subtilely forced to die.

Of Europe's four million Jews, 2.6 million are in Russia. More Jews live in Russia than in Israel. And this control is where the Jewish population comes in for special persecution as well as in innumerable other ways.

Churches can play no part in marriage and neither can foreigners. Russians are forbidden to marry foreigners without rare official consent. If they do the marriage is invalid. Getting married is, in fact, merely statistical. The man and woman just register with ZAGS on Dzerzhinsky Square, the Communist Bureau of Statistics, as married.

Divorce starts in the same way and the same place. You simply pay $5 for your first divorce application, $15 for the second, $30 for the third, etc.

Only one Protestant church is left in Moscow—a Baptist church. Only one Roman Catholic church remains open—the French church of St. Louis. The French priest still conducts Mass, but is forbidden to give his sermon in Russian.

Ordinarily, churches are torn down. That would be too simple. Instead, many are utilized to liquidate the people's religious feelings. Officialdom employs them insolently as Communist Youth Recreation Centers—band instruments, kitchen utensils, placards sneering at God defiantly hung on the altars. Blasphemies are splashed in red paint on the doors and walls. Pictures of Marx and Lenin are hung rakishly on the sacred Cross.

By despoiling church the Communists belittle religion. There is an ancient Russian saying that "he who would attack a king must kill him." The official atheist doctrine chooses these ways to kill the church.

Blessings be, the free church sustains us here. And this is another moment of its glory. Happy Easter to all.

"Frankly, I think you ought to prepare yourself—you know, just in case 'Patton' doesn't win the Academy Award."

TEEN SCENE: Rules of Road for Hopeful Hitchhikers

by LEI

The first warm days, the holiday mood, and a case of wanderlust are going to combine to tempt many teens into hitch-hiking to the shopping center, the fishing hole, or the out-of-town concert. Films, books, and the reports of friends make it sound like a very adventuresome way to get to your destination.

It is—if you get there. It can also be an adventuresome way of going to jail, causing a traffic accident, or being threatened, robbed, molested, or killed. Girls run far more risks than boys, a fact which most of them realize—but it doesn't seem to keep them off the roadside.

When you're thumbing a ride, unless you find one in a few minutes, you're almost certain to have a brush with the law. It may be nothing more than a long look, or a stern warning of the "Get-a-ride-before-I-get-back-here-in-ten minutes" variety On the other hand, you may be arrested. Particularly if the officer was the first one at the scene where a 16-year-old girl at the roadside was "brushed" by a big-big truck, and killed instantly. Or if he were the one who heard the tale told by the college student who was beaten up and robbed by the "nice guys" who gave him a ride home from college. Or, for that matter, if he answered the call from the trusting young mother who picked up an apparently harmless rapist. The officer who arrests you may have very good reasons for thinking he's doing you a favor—if that makes you feel any better as you call your parents from the police station. Particularly if they don't know you hitch-hike.

Thumbing rides is on the increase, and usually, all goes well—many young drivers on the road had to stand with their thumb out sometimes before they got their wheels. They have sympathy for other young people in that situation, and regard hitch-hiking as an acceptable method of getting around. However, this was not always so. As recently as five years ago, for instance, girls who thumbed rides were often looking more for adventure than for transportation. Some drivers find it difficult to believe that these days, perfectly respectable women hitch rides. Similarly, there are many drivers who assume boy hitch-hikers are deviates, drug addicts, or on the run from trouble, and easy prey for the abnormal.

Usually the teens who gets the wrong ride escapes with only an embarassing proposition, or a roughing-up and struggle. They are lucky. Three girls in Wisconsin were driven by a helpful motorist through a lonely shortcut—where five other fellows were waiting. One girl survived to tell the police what had happened.

The rats on the road feel they have one thing going for them—very few hikers who are robbed, raped, or beaten on the road will report the incident to police. They know they took a chance in the first place, that they feel that the small chance their attacker will be be found is not worth the humiliation and chewing out they face from the authorities—and from family and friends. So the attacker is free to prey on their thumbriders.

Those who do hitch-hike have found there are ways of increasing their margin of safety. The first rule for safe-thumbing is DON'T! There are many safer and easier, if less romantic ways of getting where you're going. However, if you choose to ignore that rule . . .

Never hitch-hike alone, even if you're a six-foot-four college halfback. Many teens find it advisable to hold a sign with their destination, instead of thumbing every car headed in that general direction. In either case, stand well off the road, and don't try to get a ride on a curve or at a complicated intersection or on a high-speed highway. You could cause a serious traffic accident—assuming anyone is foolhardy enough to try to stop for you. Girls who hitch-hike must do it in a group, and the group should include one of their brothers, or the sturdiest boy in their class. Mini skirts, hot pants, and stretch jeans have no place by the roadside—sturdy, conservative attire will get you more rides, and they'll be safer. If you've never hiked before, choose a companion who has, and often. Make sure someone knows you started out hitch-hiking, and where you were going. Also make sure someone at your destination expects you, and knows about when you should arrive. If at all possible, call them along the route.

If the worst occurs, and you have any trouble, report it! The same driver who just made a pass at you might attack the next rider he picked up. When a car stops for you, make a note of the license number. Of course, don't let the driver see large amounts of money, and don't talk too much about yourself.

However—be friendly. When—and if—you reach your destination safely, remember to say "thank you." The driver who stopped to give you a ride took a chance, too, to do a favor for you. The good impresion you make today might mean a safe ride for a friend tomorrow.

How Student Investigates

NEW PALTZ

Youth is becoming increasingly aware of environmental abuses and in New Paltz High School an extremely active group is actively involved in doing something about it.

One student who became vitally concerned with possible abuse of the air around us conducted an intensive search to find the truth of a situation, going right to the top for answers. Cameron Afzal of the high school earth committee has issued this report of findings.

"I was watching the CBS morning news in the rush-rush of the school day morning when I heard something about a scientist who had facts about the SST (supersonic transport) causing skin cancer. I then had to catch the school bus so I could not listen for more details. I told our faculty advisor, George Campbell, what I had just heard. He told me it would be a good idea to pursue the accuracy of this story.

"Thinking the best place to start this pursuit would be CBS itself in New York, I telephoned them about the story. I was given the 'olde run around' for a few minutes before I was referred to the CBS Washington bureau where the story originated. When I called Washington, I was again given the 'run around' until someone suggested I call Senator Proxmire's office and get the full story from there.

After reaching the honorable Senator's office by phone, I was quiickly referred to one of his aides who gave me the following story. A Dr. James McDonald came with some facts that a fleet of SSTs flying in the stratosphere would be a health hazzard in that the ozone region in which the plane flies would be depleted by the water vapor coming out of the plane. The sun's ultraviolet rays will pass through the region, no longer about to shield the earth from the rays, and cause skin cancer. As a result Dr. McDonald said there would be 10,000 more skin cancer cases a year. Senator Proxmire of of the National Institute of Wisconsin then sent forty letters to reputable dermatologists and atmospheric scientists about Dr. McDonald's findings. Twenty-four of the scientists answered the letter in support of Dr. McDonald's findings. Dr. Gori of the National Institute of Health stated that he not only agreed with Dr. McDonald but felt his figure was too conservative and that there will be a lot more than 10,000 cases of skin cancer. Senator Proxmire then decided to invite Dr. Gori to testify before his Senate committee.

At first Dr. Gori accepted and then on March 15, Dr. Gori telephoned Senator Proxmire saying there had been protocol problems with the White House and he might not be able to come. On Tuesday, March 16 Dr. Gori called again and said "something had come up" and he could not come. Thus Senator Proxmire charged the Administration with trying to "gag" Dr. Gori.

"Interestingly enough, I then read a New York Times quote of Ronald Ziegler's 'We absolutely in no way encouraged Dr. Gori not to appear with Senator Proxmire or before this committee. I tried to telephone the New York Times office to verify this statement but was unable to get through. I decided to go to the top and called Ronald Ziegler. "Of course, I didn't get through, but I did get someone in the Executive Office in the White House who switched me to the Press Secretary's office. I spoke to the press secretary of the Press Secretary. He confirmed Mr. Ziegler's quotation and said he had no idea how Senator Proxmire could think they would stop Dr. Gori from testifying.

"After all this I thought I better ask Dr. Gori. Through the National Institute of Health I got Dr. Gori's telephone number and I called him. He said he was in no way pressured not to go before the committee. Then I asked him about the SST and cancer. He told me that 10 per cent of the skin cancer cases would not be curable and the SST would damage the Northern Hemisphere most because its use would be in that hemisphere. Of course, if it flies in the southern hemisphere the SST will damage the earth.

"I am very grateful to Frank Hamilton of the New Paltz Central School District Office for making it possible for me to telephone New York and Washington."

Youth in the News—Some Traveling Time

Youth in the News will soon have some international names to add to its spotlight.

Twenty-eight French students will be hosted in Kingston next weekend by students from John A. Coleman High School. The students who arrived from France April 1 are currently touring New York City, Maryland and New England sites before arriving for their Ulster County visit next Saturday. While in this area they will be overnight guests at local homes will attend classes and a special reception at Coleman and will tour Mid-Hudson sites of interest. More reports of their local activities will be detailed next week.

Travel of another sort is in store this summer for a Southern Ulster Miss.

Deborah Anne Kruzansky, a New Paltz Central High School sophomore, has been selected to spend part of this summer with the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Saratoga Springs.

The program is being offered by the State Education Department for talented high school students, and Miss Kruzansky is one of four flute students in the state chosen for participation.

She is presently studying with Claude Monteux, and hopes to continue her studies at Curtis Institute in Philadelphia or Juilliard in New York City when she graduates.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sy Kruzansky of Ridge View Drive, New Paltz.

Meanwhile campus reports are still coming i. lauding Ulster County students for the scholastic achievements.

Bruce Hilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hilton of 7 Mountain View Avenue, Kingston, has been named to the dean's list at Stout State University, Menomonie, Wisc. for the fall semester. A senior at Stout, Bruce is majoring in psychology and is slated to graduate in August. He is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School and completed liberal arts studies at Paul Smiths College in 1969.

Kathleen Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coughlin of Route 7, East Drive, Kingston, has been on the dean's list at Marist College, Poughkeepsie for two marking periods this year. She is a graduate of John A. Coleman High School. A sophomore at Marist she is majoring in social studies.

Eileen Secor, a sophomore at Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh, has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent E. Secor of 205 Green Street, Port Ewen.

Esther Peters of Kingston a student at Erie Community College, achieved a straight A rating in the occupational therapy assistant course at the Buffalo college.

A number of Ulster County students achieved dean's list ratings at Orange County Community College in nearby Middletown.

Included in honor students there are Joseph C. Jeszeck of Wawarsing; Joseph Mitchell, Joel A. Weinstein and Tanya Zeputek, all of Ellenville; Maxine P. Weed of Walker Valley; Brian S. Foster and Andrew M. Tammero, both of Wallkill and Faith M. Buono of Glasco.

IN MARKET PLACE — Nancy Nitschke (R) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nitschke, 46 Spaulding Lane, Saugerties, and Sharon McAllister of Hollis, L. I., inspect merchandise offered in Freetown, Sierra Leone. Both girls participated in the semester at sea with World Campus Afloat — Chapman College, a program that offers classes abroad the S. S. Ryndam. The floating campus docked at Los Angeles, Calif., earlier this year and the girls are back at their dryland campus in Orange, Calif.

Salute to Scholars

KYSERIKE

Salutes to scholars have been much in the fore at Rondout Valley High School during the past few weeks.

Eight scholarships for students studying for teaching careers were awarded at the 1971 Scholarship Tea of the Rondout Valley Teachers Association, held recently in the high school library. The awards, in amounts of $375 each, were made to Kate Barnhart, Bruce Burr, Nora Hansen, Joseph Konen, Cynthia Raymond, Wendy Rose, Deborah Seymour, and Linda Young.

Scholarship applicants and winners were presented by Mrs. Elaine Decker and Mrs. Marie Roosa, members of the RVTA Scholarship Committee. Pouring were Mrs. Frances Beardslee, associate FTA advisor, Mrs. Ruth Gottesman, and retired teachers Mrs. Helen Larsen and Mrs. Josephine Lawrence.

Approximately 150 guests, including teachers, administrators, scholarship applicants, members of the Future Teachers of America, retired teachers and friends attended.

As a matter of fact, musical activities have been much on the minds of RVHS scholars.

High School choral students had extensive rehearsals for the Haydn Mass In Time of War for the New Paltz Choral Clinic which was held at the State University College last weekend.

The conductor was David Randolph who presently conducts the Masterworks Chorus. St. Ceceilia Chorus, United Choral Society of Long Island, and the Concert Choir at New Paltz College.

Assistant Professors of Music Lee Pritchard and Barbara Hardgrave directed the clinic. In addition to the performance of Haydn Mass. solo and ensemble critiques were given by the college staff. Schools from Long Island to Albany took part in the workshop.

Students on Council

STONE RIDGE

Students join with business leaders for a cooperative program at Ulster County Community College.

Four students have been appointed to serve as "student representatives" to the Business Studies Advisory Council at the college.

The four are William McGill, Kingston; Al Thiemke, Spring Glen; Annette Manesse, Milton; and Kenneth Cole, Red Hook.

Howard Mills, an assistant professor of business at UCCC said he feels the additior of the students should help to provide instructional materials and opinions that will increase the educational value of the Business Division's curriculum at the College. He is the coordinator of the Council.

"We feel the students also will assist us with the interpretation of our curriculum to the public," said Mills.

The students represent the following areas in the Business Division: McGill, accounting; Thiemke, business administration; Miss Manesse, executive secretarial studies; and Cole, retail business management.

"All the council members from community business and our faculty are looking forward to working with the newly appointed student members of the council," Mills said.

The council has provided a communication channel between the college and the business community and has proved helpful in the planning of courses and programs in specific skills.

College Proficiency Exams Set for May

ALBANY

College proficiency examinations in the arts and health education subjects, nursing sciences and modern foreign languages will be given in 15 testing centers throughout the state on May 13 and 14, the State Education Department announced today.

The usual fee of $15 for each examination will be required and applications must be received no later than April 9. Most of the 25 examinations are three hours in length and there are no prerequisites for taking them. Anyone who feels he has college-level knowledge of one or more of the subjects offered, regardless of how he gained that knowledge, is eligible to take the tests.

Most colleges and universities in New York State will grant course credit for acceptable scores on these examinations. In 1970, more than 5500 of these exams were given and several thousands of college credits were awarded on the basis of results.

For information, those interested may write to the College Proficiency Examination Program, New York State Education Department, Albany, N.Y.

Sawyer Youth Set Rec Night

SAUGERTIES

The Junior and Senior High Youth of the Saugerties United Methodist Church Washington Avenue and Post Street, Saugerties, will have a special recreation night Sunday, April 18. Youth of the church will travel to Freehold for an evening of swimming and fellowship as a regular part of their weekly programs.

The Junior-Senior High youth fellowships include between 50 and 60 active young people participating a variety of service projects and services in the church. Included in their church life are; Youth and Teen Choirs, presentation of folk musicals each year, special programs at nearby nursing homes, an emphasis on conversation and ecology with the collection of magazines and newspapers, participation in services of worship as Candelighters and ushers, and weekly meeting with worship, prayer and study. Martin Hain is president of the Junior High Fellowship, Fred Bright is president of the Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship. Adult Advisor's is David Bright.

Junior and Senior High youth of the community who have no church home are welcome to become a part of the group for fellowship, worship and study.

A special project of the junior and Senior Highs will be working with the children's center for day care for migrant workers this summer. Several learning experiences have already been shared wtih youth taking part in this area of service with Mrs. William Rook, a former Peace Corps worker in Nigeria.

HERITAGE TRAILS — Discussing plans for this year's Heritage Trails trip for Ulster County Cadette Girl Scouts are (L-R) Mrs. William Daum, trip chairman, Sharon Phillips and Suzanne Smedes. They will be among 74 local Cadettes who will take part in a three-day visit to Philadelphia, Pa., starting April 13. Each year Cadettes visit a national historic site. Last year they visited Boston and in 1969 the trip was to Washington, D. C. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Doing the Right Thing

Q. — Is a woman's name always said first when she and a man are introduced?

It always is if you are simply saying the two names or if you are using the form, "Mrs. Smith, I'd like you to meet Mr. Jones." You could, however, say, "Mr. Jones, I would like to introduce you to Mrs. Smith." That also is a simple way to correct yourself if you find you have said Mr. Jones' name first by mistake.

Q. Is it correct to introduce contemporaries by their first names instead of Mr. and Mrs.?

Yes, unless it is a very formal or official occasion. In fact, with today's tendency to use first names immediately, it is more helpful than using the title.

Q. How should a wife introduce her husband?

To someone she knows well and who would recognize the relationship, she says the first name only: "Sue, I'd like you to meet Jim. Jim, this is Sue Isaacs; she is in my painting class." A husband follows the same rule. More formally, a wife says, "Mr. Carter, this is my husband." A husband uses "my wife" but not "the wife."

Pineapple-Topped Pancakes For an Easter Breakfast

Breakfast on Easter morning can be as exciting as the egg hunt when pineapple topped pancakes centered with a swirl of pork sausages greet the family. It may sound time-consuming, but not so with canned pineapple and a packaged pancake mix for making.

While the packaged buttermilk pancakes are being baked, the canned pineapple slices sprinkled with brown sugar, and the sausage pinwheels are browning in the oven. The baked pancakes are stacked and topped with a pineapple slice for each serving. Then a sausage pinwheel is centered on top of each stack. The effect is unique, eye-catching, and very delicious. Served with a spiced pineapple syrup, this will be a breakfast long remembered as part of a happy Easter day.

Canned pineapple is readily available in a variety of styles — slices, chunks, tidbits, and crushed. Whatever the purpose of use, there is a style to fit the need. Then, too, there is the refreshing pineapple juice, now canned with added vitamin C. It's a delicious way to have a quick, energizing pick up.

Pineapple Pancake Stack

One fourteen and one-quarter ounce can sliced pineapple
One cup brown sugar, packed
One stick cinnamon
Four whole cloves
Twelve pork link sausages
One tablespoon butter or margarine
One and one-half cups pancake mix

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Drain pineapple; save syrup. Mix together pineapple syrup, Three-quarters cup brown sugar, cinnamon and cloves and cook over low heat for about ten minutes, until syrup is thickened. remove spices, and keep syrup warm. For each serving, coil three sausages into pinwheels, and fasten with skewers. Place in a baking pan. Add enough boiling water to cover sausages. Let stand ten minutes. Drain well. Arrange drained pineapple slices on a baking sheet. Dot with butter, and sprinkle each slice with a teaspoon brown sugar. Place sausages in oven and bake for about 20 minutes, turning sausages once, after 10 minutes. Then add pineapple and continue to bake sausages and pineapple until each is nicely browned. Meanwhile, prepare pancake mix as package directs and bake according to package directions, allowing about two tablespoons batter for each cake. For each serving, stack four pancakes, and top with a pineapple slice and a sausage pinwheel. Serve with the spiced pineapple syrup. Makes four servings.

PINEAPPLE PANCAKE STACK

Savory Second-Day Salad

A ham purchase often has a built-in bonus in form of extra meat. If you are so fortunate, combine spring cabbage with cubed cooked ham and pieces of peaches to provide a most tasty and satisfying slaw.

* * *

HAM AND PEACH SLAW

Three cups cubed cooked smoked ham
Four cups shredded cabbage
One third cup cooked salad dressing
One can (16 ounces) sliced cling peaches,* drained and cut in pieces
Two third cup canned flaked coconut

Lightly stir salad dressing into ham and cabbage. Fold in peaches and coconut. Chill two hours or more. Four servings.

*3 cling peach halves can be substituted for can of sliced peaches.

Son Gets Homesick

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Sidney graduated from high school at the top of his class last June. He was offered a scholarship to a very fine Eastern University, but he turned it down to go to a local college. Everybody thought he was crazy. He admitted to me he didn't want to go away to college because he gets "homesick."

We sent Sidney to summer camp when he was 12, and he came back after one week so thin and pale, he didn't look like the same boy. He said he got so homesick he couldn't even sleep or eat.

Sidney is not an only child. But he is my youngest and has always stayed very close to me.

He doesn't have many friends and has never asked a girl for a date on his own, but he has dated girls when someone fixes him up. He reads a lot, and doesn't mind being by himself all the time.

I want Sidney to go away to college next fall, but every time I bring it up he begs me not to talk about it. I think it would be good for him to go away, but how can a mother push her son out of the house when he begs to stay?

SIDNEY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's not uncommon for a 12-year-old to become so homsick he can't eat or sleep, but when he reaches college age he should have matured sufficiently to overcome it. If Sidney has not been evaluated by an expert, he ought to be. To push him out of the house would be traumatic, but do insist he have a frank talk with a doctor.

Community College Open House Slated May 2

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College will hold its third annual Open House on Sunday, May 2, to give the public an opportunity to see how the Stone Ridge campus is helping to meet the community's higher education needs.

The hours will be from 2 to 5 p.m.

The public will have an opportunity to tour six buildings on the campus where there will be laboratory and classroom demonstrations and exhibits. The buildings include the Macdonald DeWitt Library and the George Clinton, John Burroughs, Jacob Hasbrouck, Jacob Hardenbergh and Algonquin Buildings.

Visitors also will have an opportunity to see the exterior of two other buildings—John Vanderlyn Hall and the Senate Gymnasium—which are nearing completion and will be available for use next September.

Members of the committee planning the Open House include J.C. Haviland, assistant to the President, who is the chairman; Allan Duane, Assistant Professor of English; George Vizvary, Assistant Professor of Drafting; Mrs. Susanne Connick, Assistant Professor of Secretarial Studies; Frederic Misner, chairman of the Division of Mathematics and Physical Science; and H. Stephen Larsen, an Instructor of Psychology.

Also Robert Kurland, chairman of the Department of Public Service; Mark Cranfield, chairman of the Department of Health and Physical Education; Keith P. LaBudde, chairman of the Department of Computer Technology; Miss Dorothy Brandow, Assistant Professor of Nursing; Mrs. Rhoda Mones, chairman of the Department of Speech; Richard Olsen, chairman of the Department of Music; Clarence Gutt, Director of Purchasing and Central Services; Miss Jean Miles, Assistant Director of Admissions. Mrs. Ruth Trewin, an Instructional Assistant; and John J. Connors, Director of Maintenance.

Meanwhile, Buckminster Fuller, the futureologist who has gained fame for his geodesic domes, will speak at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 20, at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College, Stephen Moncure, the Student Government Organization president has announced.

Dr. Fuller will speak on Man's Function in the Universe in the plaza in front of the MacDonald DeWitt Library. Moncure said the talk is open to the public and added that students from various high schools are expected to attend the program being sponsored by the S.G.O.

For the appearance of Dr. Fuller, UCCC students have constructed a geodesic dome on the Stone Ridge campus.

"We feel that the dome is a symbolic gesture to give a physical statement about the reality and significance of Dr. Fuller's work so members of the community will have a concrete experience of geodesic dome."

Dr. Fuller's geodesic domes have been universally recognized to be the strongest, lighest and most efficient shelters ever devised.

Dr. Fuller's talk is part of an Experience and Transformation series the Student Government Organization has been sponsoring at the College the Spring. The central issue towards which the series is oriented is the ability of experience to transform the person, to change and improve his perspectives on life and "reality."

CLEANUP CAMPAIGN — This section of the Connelly Road is dramatic evidence of what ecological apathy is doing to the Ulster County countryside. This litter strewn area was staged by a group of Connelly youngsters, who warn that it may become the rule rather than the exception. To prevent this from happening, they plan a day-long cleanup drive in the Connelly area on Saturday, April 17. More than 30 are expected to participate, and they promise a startling change in the area's outlook.

Bell Supports Curbs on Welfare Costs

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) Monday voted for legislation on curbing the spiraling welfare costs in New York State.

Assemblyman Bell, voting on a package of welfare bills which would result in a reduction of $164 million from the state and another $164 million from localities, said the measures would not affect the aged, blind and disabled.

The measures reduce the flat grants to welfare recipients and sets a statewide amount for all recipients.

Another in the package of measures drops from $5,000 to $4,500 the eligibility level for income of those enrolling in Medicaid. The final measure reduces the amount of services available under the Medicaid program in New York State.

"The tax burden to the state and its local counties and cities will be eased by $328 million at a time when the state is in its worst financial crisis ever," said Assemblyman Bell.

The measures set a statewide payment standard of $231 per month—plus rent and fuel—for the average family of four. But the state would fund only 90 per cent of the payment, thus dropping it to about $208.

Assemblyman Bell said the legislation would have its major effect in New York City and that Upstate will see little change. He noted that welfare families could make up the $23 loss by taking advantage of the federal food stamp plan, through which low-income families may purchase food of greater value than they pay for the stamps.

Camp-o-Rama Plans Set

NEW PALTZ — April 24 and 25 are the dates for the largest outdoor display of camping equipment and recreational vehicles ever held in the Mid-Hudson Valley, and Camp-o-rama officials have stated that everything is set for the gala affair.

Camp-o-rama will be held at the Ulster County Fairgounds, Albany Post Road, New Paltz. Commercial dealers of camping equipment, camping supplies and outdoor recreational equipment will set up displays covering more than 24,000 square feet. In addition, it is expected that more than 120 families will camp out at the fairgrounds during the two-day event.

The fourth annual Camp-o-rama is sponsored by the Ulster County Chapters of the National Campers and Hikers Association, a non-profit, educational and volunteer organization of families who enjoy recreational living and outdoor activities.

The purpose of Camp-o-rama is to demonstrate the benefits of outdoor recreational living and to acquaint the public with the types of units available for camping and outdoor living.

Awards valued at more than $2,000 will be given. There is no admission fee for the event. The gates will be open Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 pm. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Marbletown Citizens To Meet on April 15

The Citizens Organization of Marbletown will hear discussion on a recent march to Albany by members of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association at a meeting April 15 at the American Legion Hall in Stone Ridge.

Mrs. Alice Tipp, a member of the board of directors of WHITA, will discuss highlights of the March 25 trip to Albany, where members picketed the State Capitol in protest of the proposed state budget and later met with State Senator Jay P. Rolison and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell to discuss their grievances.

The Citizens Organization of Marbletown was represented in the March on Albany by two of its members, Mrs. Elsie Stransky and Mrs. Eleanor Wuest.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

County Backs Need for State Commission on Catskills

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — A move to endorse state legislation establishing a temporary state commission on the Catskills was passed Thursday night by the Ulster County Legislature but met opposition from eight legislators Republicans and Democrats alike.

Submitted in a resolution by chairman of the board, Peter J. Savago, it was drawn, he said, "at the request of Herbert Hekler, planning director.

Savago contended that it was advisable because 40 per cent of the county is included in the Catskill Park and because the Catskill Mountains are a vital ecological and economic resource to the county.

Also, he said, "the proximity to the New York Metropolitan area and projected population growth presents an ominous threat to the integrity of the Catskills."

Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) asked that the resolution be withdrawn saying "it would be buying a pig in a poke. We can do without one more commission during the present financial crisis." Dye said the establishment of the state commission calls for $100,000 in the budget next year.

Savago suggested that the $100,000 is the "state's problem, not ours," and asked for approval of the measure, "if you are interested in ecology."

Those voting for the resolution included Savago and Elmendorf, also, Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8), Paul Brazier (D-Dist. 1), Eugene Corey (R-Dist. 9), Lawrence Craft (R-Dist.10), Andrew T. Gilday, (D-City), Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), S. Robert Kelder (R-Dist. 2), Lewis Kirschner (D-Dist. 7), Roger Mabie (D-Dist. 7), Frank Muller (R-Dist. 10), Richard Nace (R-Dist. 2), Eugene K. Noe (R-Dist. 9), Orrie R. Reihl (D-City), John Sangaline (R-City), Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1), Richard, Thorntonrdluetaoi e Lester C. Emendorf, (R-Dist. 2) approved the move saying "it is for our own benefit, ecologically and environmentally."

1) William West (D-Dist. 12) and Brian White (R-Dist. 9).

Absent at the time of the voting were William Edelmuth (D-City), James Gilpatric (D-City). Also, Glenn Debrosky (R-Dist. 7), Ernest John Gardner (R-Dist. 11) and Melvin Mones (R-City).

Dr. Saul Goldfarb Nominated

District Dental Society Session Tuesday

ALBANY — Third party prepaid dental programs will be discussed at length when dentists affiliated with the Third District Dental Society meet for their annual sessions at the Thruway Hyatt House in Albany all day Tuesday, April 13.

Dr. Joseph M. Sullivan of Troy, president of the Third District, announced that the morning session will be devoted to the business meeting and election of officers. Following lunch the dentists will hear a discussion headed by Ralph Hammersley Jr., executive director of Blue-Cross-Blue Shield of Northeastern New York and view exhibits to be set up by dental suppliers.

Dr. Saul Goldfarb of Kingston has been nominated for district president of the area comprising seven counties and including more than 300 members. Other nominations: Dr. Harvey S. Sutton of Albany, president-elect; Dr. Gerard A. Ripp of Troy, vice president; Dr. Herbert G. Spieske of Albany, secretary; Dr. Robert A. Olsen of Troy, treasurer.

Strain Awarded Contract For Kingston Hospital Work

KINGSTON — Bids were opened for the installation of air conditioning equipment for the East Wing of Kingston Hospital on April 5, according to Christus J. Larios, chairman of the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The contract was awarded to C. B. Strain & Son, Inc. of Kingston, the low bidder. The project involves updating the existing facilities by the addition of air-conditioning on all floors of the East Wing, including all patient rooms, the Radiology department, Emergency Room, employes' cafeteria and locker room, and the linen, autopsy and purchasing work areas.

The proposed installation is a pumped, chilled water system utilizing two 80 ton compressors with individual thermostat controls on a fan coil unit in each room, with condensate drains and designed to meet hospital code requirements.

Bids are being received for sprinkling installation in various areas of the East Wing. This additional project is planned for the near future.

Paperwòrkers At Westvaco Vote Pay Cut

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Paperworkers have voted to take a 10 per cent pay cut and accept reduced benefits in order to keep the Westvaco mill open after its scheduled closing June 1.

A group of middle management employes of the plant, about 20 miles north of Albany, needed the labor agreement to enact a plan to take over the plant after the parent company ceases operations there.

Westvaco, formerly West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co., has plants in other parts of the country.

The group, called M-7, said the vote Friday by 550-member Local 678 of the United Pulp and Paperworkers assured three years of "labor peace" and would encourage potential investors in the new operation.

An M-7 spokesman said that a definite agreement with Westvaco for sale of the mill, an extension of deadlines on pollution control, and financial backing still are needed to keep the mill open.

Local 678 president Leo Piroli said the 214-85 vote represents a chance to provide the community of 6,000 with 300 jobs.

More than 700 persons were employed previously at Westvaco, the community's largest employer. Operations have been trimmed gradually since early last year.

Easter Rites at Hilltop, Riverside

Traditional dawn services marking the start of the joyous Easter holiday are planned throughout Ulster County tomorrow. From mountain top to riverside, religious observances will be conducted in the first light of Easter Sunday.

Young people of the Port Ewen United Methodist and Reformed Churches will hold Easter dawn services 6 a.m. at the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club. A community breakfast will be served after the annual service by the men of the Yacht Club.

Why Are We Here will be the theme of union dawn services at Camp Epworth, Lucas Turnpike, High Falls, at 6:30 a.m. The service is co-sponsored by the Rondout Valley United Methodist, Rochester, Marbletown, High Falls and Town of Rosendale United Reformed Churches.

Young people from the participating churches will lead singing of traditional hymns as well as a number of modern folk songs dealing with the resurrection theme. Those participating in the service will be Al Olsen and the Revs Gerard Van Dyk, Richard E. Lake and Richard Brihn.

Breakfast will be served in the dining room of Camp Epworth and a free will donation will be accepted to cover expenses.

Youth of the Saugerties United Methodist Church will conduct community Easter Dawn services at Seaman Park, Saugerties starting 7 a.m. In case of rain services will be held in the sanctuary of the church, Washington Avenue and Post Street. Breakfast will be served in Fellowship Hall after the worship service.

The lawn of Cliff House at Lake Minnewaska will be the setting for the Easter dawn service of the Kerhonkson Federated Church. Starting at 6 a.m. the rites will include special music and guest speaker, the Rev. Robert Halter of the Redemptorist Fathers, Mt. St. Alphonsus seminary, Esopus.

Breakfast will be served at the church after the service. In case of inclement weather the services will be held at the church also.

On the other side of the Hudson River, Easter sunrise services will be held at the former Zabriski Estate at Bard College with the Red Hook United Methodist and St. John's Reformed Churches uniting at 7:30 a.m. Breakfast will be served at St. John's church.

The annual Easter dawn service of the United Methodist Church of Shady will be at 7 a.m. with a light breakfast to be served in the church annex after the service

The Rev. Bonnie L. Jones will deliver the Easter Sermon Mrs. Edwin Balmer, church organist, will be in charge of special music for the occasion.

There will be no regular worship service Easter Sunday. Sunday school classes will meet at 10:30 a.m.

Sunrise services will be conducted by the Youth Fellowship of the Olivebridge United Methodist Church at 6:30 a.m. Breakfast will be served at 7:15 a.m. with a silver offering taken to defray expenses. The entire service and breakfast have been planned by the young people in what is hoped to be a first annual event at the church.

The Christian Endeavor of the Woodstock Reformed Church will assist in the Easter dawn services there at 6:30 a.m. A fellowship breakfast will be served at 7:30 a.m.

Easter dawn services at the Reformed Church of the Comforter, 26 Wynkoop Place will be held at 7 a.m. Nelson Burhans, guest speaker will give the sermon on Death to Life, Doubt to Faith. Breakfast will be served at 8 a.m. by the Comforter Christian Youth Fellowship.

The Hudson Valley Evangelical ministerial Association will hold an Easter dawn service 6:30 a.m. at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 90 Miller's Lane, with the Rev. Osterhoudt Phillips as guest speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Phillips is well known in the area having his own radio program, Faith for Today, and serving as teacher for Teen Challenge Institute of Missions at Rhinebeck. He is retired from the full-time ministry having pastored the Shokan Reformed Church for many years.

Easter Dawn service at the Ponckhockie Congregational Church, 93 Abruyn Street, will be held at 7 a.m. followed by breakfast. The Rev. Olney E. Cook will be guest speaker.

Members of the Communicants Class of Blue Mountain Reformed Church will conduct dawn services at the Blue Mountain Cemetery 7 a.m. Theme will be You Are There.

Sunrise services at 5:30 a.m. will be held at Arthur Kurtz Knoll, New Paltz by the Senior High Youth Fellowship of the New Paltz Reformed Church. Church school Easter breakfast will be held at the fellowship hall 9 a.m.

An Easter dawn service will be conducted 7 a.m. at Academy Green with members of Fair Street Reformed Church participating. A breakfast will be served at the parish room of the church immediately after the service by members of the Senior High Youth Fellowship and their parents.

The Rev. A. R. Harrison will be guest speaker at Easter sunrise services 6:30 a.m. at Riverview Baptist Church, 240 Catherine Street.

The hillside above the home of Arthur Gray, Ohayo Mountain, Glenford, will be the setting for the Easter sunrise service for the Ashokan United Methodist Charge. Services will be at 6:30 a.m. followed by breakfast at the Glenford church hall at 7 a.m.

The junior high youth fellowship of the New Paltz United Methodist Church will present a sunrise service 6:30 a.m. at the Overlook, Route 44-55 on the Minnewaska Trail. The community service is open to all. Breakfast will be served by the senior high youth fellowship at the church 7:30 to 9:30 am.

Easter Services Slated at Bard

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON

Easter Services at the Chapel of the Holy Innocents, Bard College, will begin with the traditional Vigil Service of Easter Eve Saturday at 6 p.m.

This will be followed by a sung Eucharist on Easter morning at 11:30 at which the Chapel Choir, with members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, will present Vivaldi's Credo. Music for strings and organ by Mozart will serve as Prelude and Postlude for the service.

Drive-In Church

Drive-In Church will resume for the season Easter Sunday at the Sunset Drive-In, Route 28. Services will be at 8:45 a.m. with the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of Old Dutch Church officiating. Passover Demonstration At New Paltz Nazarene

NEW PALTZ

The Rev. Jonas J. Cohen, who has an Orthodox Jewish background, will present a demonstration of the Passover on Wednesday, April 14th at 7:30 p.m. in the New Paltz Church of the Nazarene on Route 32 north, New Paltz.

Mr. Cohen is field evangelist with the American Board of Missions to the Jews which has its headquarters at 236 West 72nd Street, New York.

The dramatization which he will present will show the relation the Passover bears to the Christian communion and how the person of Israel's Messiah, the Lord Jesus Christ, is reflected in the service. The table will be set, and the speaker will don the costume of the Orthodox Jew and explain the elements that are used at the "Seder" in order to illustrate the "Jewishness" of Christianity.

The public may attend this unusual service.

P-J Taxpayers Ask Mandate on School Budgets

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Port Jervis Taxpayers Association is pushing to have the legislature mandate school budget referendums in New York State cities of less than 250-000 population.

Oscar Wein, president of the association, says such legislation would affect 56 cities in the state. The taxpayers argue that residents in suburban areas vote on suburban school district budgets and that residents in the city's should have the same opportunity.

The Port Jervis group plans a major effort after the legislative recess.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FISA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.15 an hour with overtime pay required after 42 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.30 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 421 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 3-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, April 11

GENERAL TENDENCIES — In the midst of a considerable amount of confusion and by using unsound judgment, you are well advised to stick to the principles and precepts you have found suitable to your advancement and growth. Take a middle course in any important contracts to be decided.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you listen carefully to what advisers say and test them against your intuitive hunches, you come up with the right answers. Show patience with mate who is not in a good mood now. Smile.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try not to argue with an associate who is in a bad mood. Go out for recreation. Make sure you keep all promises you have made. Arrogance gets you nowhere now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Being thoughtful to a good helper who has been loyal and efficient does much to keep harmony within the relationship. Your motto is "I Serve" and you should put it into play now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Enjoying yourself is good today. Stick to the tried and true or you could get into trouble. Close ties want you to take risks on their behalf. Show that you are against this.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although there may be problems at home, arguing over them today could lead to serious trouble. Think things over in your mind and come to right answers. Then remove whatever is the cause of discussion quietly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to talk over future projects with associates since little could be accomplished. Spend time clearing up errors in written work. Tomorrow you will be better prepared.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keeping busy at correcting errors in statements and fixing budget is good in the morning, without expecting others to assist you with this. Some repair to home is possible now, too. Do not be extravagant.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find out why you are not feeling as well as you should and do not look quite right. Do something constructive about it. Do not attend an affair where you think arguments can start. Go to the theater, read, or indulge in some activity of your choice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) With all the duties coming up you hardly know where to begin, but if you first study principles behind them, you know exactly what to do. Make plans to gain your objectives in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Friends are apt to be preoccupied now, so do not try to force your views on them or you start arguments. Do whatever is necessary to gain your personal aims, but don't rely too much on others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Follow advice of experts in whatever is of a worldly nature. Civic matters at present are to your liking. Make yourself a more valuable person to the community.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Before entering new activities, talk them over with older and wiser persons or you might regret it later. Don't take that trip for a while yet or you might run into trouble. Go over your personal correspondence.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who likes to have his own way. Learning to follow directions of higher-ups is the best way for your progeny to advance. While your child is still young, give small tasks to do that will inculcate the habit of work and teach to take orders; then the life becomes a successful one and much can be accomplished throughout the lifetime an an orderly and proper fashion. Don't neglect religious training, either.

Monday, April 12

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day and evening. Start the week right by letting everyone know in some unobtrusive way that you are fond of them and want to get along better with them in the future. Be romantic. Let those you like know it by entertaining them. Be happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look on the good side of mate and do whatever will make him or her happier. Plan how to handle responsibilities so that you get better results. Talk things over without showing temper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Being more cooperative with associates will bring about better results as well as more harmony. Show that you trust them. Cementing closer ties with personal friends is good too.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put first things first where your work is concerned, then listen to ideas of co-workers which can be excellent. Improve diet for better health. Too many sweets are not good for you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Ideal day to have a good time and do those things that give you a more optimistic attitude toward life in general. Become more successful by using the talents you have. Don't resort to temper.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make your home the center of your activities. Family ties cooperate more with you now. An invitation to your home extended to people you want to make a good impression upon is wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to get backing for some project you may have by contacting a prominent person you know. Show that you are a dynamic person. Favorable for shopping for the home and for mechanical equipment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Planning some time to redecorate a room in your house will win the approval of others and make you happier. Getting advice from a bigwig is wise. Stay within your budget, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after your most personal objectives. Good pals will cooperate with you willingly. Joining social groups brings excellent results in part.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Anything of a confidential nature can give you pleasure and much satisfaction today. Don't hesitate to answer questions asked of you. Evening should be spent at home with kin.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can rely on some dynamic friend to grant a favor or give assistance with some project you want at this time. Plan well so that you get the results you want quickly. Show that you have ability and wisdom.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you become active in civic work you like, you find it will help to improve your daily career as well. Getting into the limelight is fine now. Stop hiding your light under the proverbial bushel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can do much to expand at this time as well as make the right new contacts that will be profitable to you. This is the best time to plan that important trip you have in mind. Stop thinking in a pessimistic way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one of those delightful young people who seems to have an answer for everything, or will ferret it out from right sources; there is a love of knowledge and study here, and great respect for truth. Anything connected with research, laboratory work, investigative outlets, banking, handling property for others, finances, is excellent. Slant the education along such lines and send to right college.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Opening lead—♥Q

A plaintive letter from a Washington reader asks, "Why do finesses always work for experts in your column and never work for us ordinary rubber bridge players?"

Then he shows today's hand and explains that West opened the queen of hearts and continued the suit while he ducked in the hope that East's ace would drop. Anyway, he ruffed the third heart, drew trumps and tried the club finesse. East led back the fourth heart and now South tried the diamond finesse. He was down one because two out of two finesses had lost and the ace of hearts had also been in the wrong place.

We are sorry for our reader. He would have made his contract if any one of three cards had been right for him, but we aren't too sorry because he should have made his contract in spite of all the bad breaks.

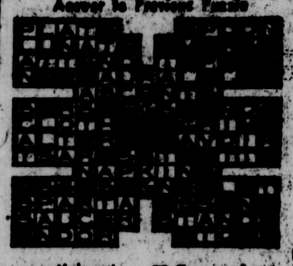

Remember that he ruffed the third heart and that East was left with the ace. South was correct to play three rounds of trumps, but he should have won the third trump in dummy and led out dummy's king of hearts. East would cover with the ace and South should simply discard a low diamond and show East his hand.

It wouldn't matter a bit where the king of diamonds and queen of clubs were located. East would have to lead one of those suits and make South's finesse for him.

Notes Expose Rating Weakness

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The trouble with television ratings is that they don't measure the really important thing: the commitment, or passion, with which viewers watch shows.

This thought comes to mind in the wake of the cancellation of such long-running series as ABC-TV's Lawrence Welk and the CBS-TV rural programs: "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Green Acres," "Mayberry R.F.D.," "The Jim Nabors Show" and "Hee Haw."

While Welk is hardly discotheque material, it is grossly unfair to include him with the strictly provincial series, as is fashionable in some quarters. His classification has more to do with age than with any geographical area, and the letters this reviewer has received since his cancellation reaffirm his appeal in the cities as well as rural towns.

The letters, which have literally flooded in, also expose the weakness of the ratings in not being able to truly evaluate viewer commitment. For there seem to be no fans like Welk fans. Through the years, it has been well known that even harmless written remarks about his manner bring numerous protesting notes from viewers who defend him heatedly.

If I were a sponsor trying to sell products to the older age group, I would be very happy that Welk's representatives are working on plans to distribute his series on a non-network basis, and I would buy time on the programs as fast as I could. For when you have viewers as passionately committed to a show as Welk's fans are, you really can size up your audience pretty accurately —which many series can't.

In the end, does it matter very much that a huge audience has tuned in a show if it is watching it lackadaisically? And, in speaking of the commercial bottom line, does the large audience mean anything at all if it doesn't respond to the advertisements and buy the products?

I personally would be willing to get that Welk's viewers respond to the advertisements on his show—chiefly because his audience is so well defined, and also because it is loyal to all the program stands for, including reliable old products that serve a specific need.

In short, a smaller, responsive audience—whether for Welk or more high-brow material—is surely more valuable in every way, creatively and commercially, than fancy statistics that prove only a large turn-in. If Welk is old-fashioned in his easy predictability, he nevertheless brings out in his special and definite older viewers a quality that youngsters can not only understand but admire: Commitment to a pleasure they fully enjoy and respond to passionately. The Beatles could ask no more.

On the other hand, I have been puzzled at receiving almost no letters protesting the cancellations of CBS-TV's rural series. And the awful thought occurred that perhaps the network could have canceled these programs years ago without incurring wrath—yet feared to do so because it mistook numerical strength, sheer tune-in and nothing else, for viewer commitment.

Although this may be partly true, the fact is, of course, that the only game in town was the high-numbers game, and no one cared too much about viewer commitment, especially when dumb sponsors didn't press the point about a show's sales impetus. Nowadays, the numbers game is still prominent—more than networks like to admit. But the emphasis now is on the young adult urban audience, which is not nearly as dependable in its tastes as the oldtimers. And, ironically, one result may be that top network executives may have to fall back on their own judgments more often, and not have blind faith in the ratings.

Time for the Common Council to Curtail Caucuses

IT LOOKS like Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo may have a palace revolution on his hands after Tuesday night's marathon Common Council meeting which lasted just under four and a half hours.

It should be made clear at the onset that the aldermen don't mind putting in the time. What they don't like is wasting time. We're referring, of course, to the caucuses on Council meeting nights. Tuesday night the aldermen went into caucus at 8:15. They returned at 9:45.

Now the man in the street might take the aldermen's part in this caucus thing. After all, the aldermen have important legislation before them and they should have time to talk it over privately.

What the man in the street might not know is that the aldermen meet in caucus on Sunday nights before the council meetings and review all that legislation in detail.

One might assume that the aldermen, after thoroughly discussing legislation within 48 hours of the Council meetings, wouldn't have to go through it all again for almost two hours at the meeting itself.

It wasn't always like that, we're told. Back in the days when Joe Carroll was alderman-at-large (about six years ago) the caucuses lasted 15 minutes. Period. "We had to beg for another five minutes," Pete Mancuso told us. "And I mean beg. He said 15 minutes and that was it. If you weren't back in your seat, you were marked absent. And that's the way it should be done," Mancuso added. Lots of other aldermen agree with him.

Bob Gallo, we think, runs an orderly meeting. He allows everyone their opinion but still keeps things under control.

We think it's about time that Gallo did something about these lengthy caucuses. Gallo has been a nice guy about it for much too long. We think it's about time the Council got the lead out.

COUNCIL CAPERS—The kids from DeMolay, participating in a series of youth in government days, sat in with their respective aldermen at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting.

The kids picked a bad night. Not only was it one of the longest meetings in recent memory, it was one of the hottest. Most of the kids hung in there to about 11 and then went home. A few stayed to the bitter end. We wonder what they think of the Common Council, now.

The aldermen, it seems, are now in an austerity mood since the state pulled the fiscal rug out from under the city. Democrats, in particular, are bemoaning the lack of funds. Most of them voted for Mayor Koenig's record $5.8 million budget in January. It was such a great budget that the Finance Committee didn't even change a word.

Speaking of economies, the aldermen shot down three trip requests that might have cost the city a thousand dollars, tops. But then they turned around and gave the mayor a $293,000 bond issue for the Rondout Neighborhood Center which included $5,400 in trimable "alternatives" on the general construction contract. Ben Franklin had an expression for that.

Meanwhile, word is going around that the mayor might be forced to lay off some people in the public works department.

That may sound like a good idea to the curbside fiscal officer. But politicians don't like it at all. Reason being that most of the workers in the BPW come from "the other side of the tracks" (downtown) and that's where the traditional Democratic strength has always been.

Layoffs tend to make those affected somewhat upset which can lead to making their family and friends upset. Which could knock a nice hole in those Democratic wards. Layoffs will definitely be a last resoft.

UDC GROUNDBREAKING — That UDC project in Broadway East which was so-so for awhile, is off and running. Despite the snowy weather on Wednesday, Mayor Koenig, who loves ground breakings, and Mike Perry, the Seventh Ward Democrat just back from a Florida vacation, made it down to Broadway East to lean on the shovels.

URBAN RENEWAL — This week, the urban renewal agency is being sued by Bill Van Kleeck up on Hurley Avenue.

The agency says that Van Kleeck's used car lot is "obnoxious" and won't let him relocate in the uptown project.

If memory serves, urban renewal sold the program to the residents by promising, among a host of other things, that people in the project areas would get the first call on moving back in. Van Kleeck, apparently, is an exception.

CITY HALL — Don Quick, the Sixth Ward alderman, suggests that the lawn in front of the present city hall be made into a memorial green for the city's deceased veterans when the old hall is vacated later this year.

Quick's suggestion is a good one but it may not be enough to appease historically minded people in Kingston, still smarting over the demolition of the old post office on Broadway and its replacement with a drive-in diner that uses a clown for an emblem.

We hear a lot of talk about saving the old city hall and perhaps converting it into a library for children. The latest word, however, from city hall about city hall is that Kingston Hospital would like to level it for a parking lot.

If people want to save the old city hall, for whatever purpose, the time to get hot is now, not when somebody makes a parking lot out of it or puts a fried chicken emporium on the site.

Three Years Late

North Vietnam Votes Sunday

Communist-ruled North Vietnam is holding a National Assembly election Sunday, three years late. The fact that it can be held now suggests substantial North Vietnamese recovery from the effects of American bombing.

It also suggests that the regime at this particular time wants to reflect confidence in the outcome in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. It comes close to calling the prospective new assembly the legislature of complete victory.

Hanoi is still having trouble, pre-election propaganda shows. War-weariness is a fact of life. People still are being warned against internal enemies. They are still being told they must produce to the limit of their capacity. They are still led to believe, by implication, that their nation is in danger both from invasion and air attack.

The decision to hold this election was announced one day after the South Vietnamese had invaded Laos. Thus, Hanoi suddenly chose a moment when the South was making its big bid to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail and a time when Saigon leaders were talking of invading the North. That could be a deliberate show of confidence.

There is no particular reason for an election at this moment. By statute it should have been held three years ago, but North Vietnam and other Communist regimes tend to hold elections whenever they choose, regardless of laws. As usual in such countries, it is a one-slate, no-choice balloting.

The "fourth legislature" of the assembly will be chosen. The first was named in 1945, the second in 1960 and the present one in 1964, dubbed "the assembly of national salvation resistance."

Truong Chinh, a powerful Politburo member and chairman of the assembly's standing committee, spoke on his candidacy a few days ago in Hanoi. Apart from clearing up the question of his whereabouts—some Hanoi-watchers had reported him dying—he threw light on possible motives for the election decision.

North Vietnamese are being told in effect that their armed forces have been sufficiently successful to permit the luxury of elections. But Truong Chinh said there is need to increase "revolutionary vigiliance, to firmly maintain order and security, reinforce the people's air defense system and make comprehensive preparations for the defense of the capital." He told the people they were supremely happy about decrees of his standing committee which dealt with "punishing antirevolutionary crimes that infringe on Socialist property."

They must, he told North Vietnamese, "love labor, respect public property, work in a disciplined manner ... actively step-up production and economize, constantly heighten vigilance, fight and stand ready to fight well, wholeheartedly aid the front, overfulfill the 1971 state plan."

In brief, Hanoi and the nation still are in danger from the enemy: There can be no slackening on any front.

Still, there is evidence of recovery of the bombing. North Vietnam has used the three years since the bombing stopped to rebuild and to secure the regime against internal disaffection. Truong Chinh claimed those years had brought successive "bountiful harvests," that farm production is sharply higher and that progress has been made in many fields, including that of consumer goods.

Truong Chinh told his audience—and the nation—that the new "fourth legislature" would oversee a national mobilization for "complete victory over the U.S. aggressors and their henchmen."

The Military Image: Pentagon Looks at PR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The military services have ordered some reforms in their public information programs in response to the television documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon" which was attacked by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

CBS News first broadcast the one-hour show in February and repeated it last month. Agnew was joined in calling it a biased assault on the military by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The House Commerce Subcommittee has subpoened notes, film, tapes and other materials not used in the documentary, but CBS has refused to comply with the subcommittee demand. Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., Friday attacked the subcommittee move as a threat to "our constitutional rights of free speech and freedom of information."

Jerry W. Friedheim, a Defense Department spokesman, said Friday that as a result of the film, military commanders had been ordered to stop glamorizing judo and other types of hand-to-hand combat during open house demonstrations on military bases.

He said Daniel Z. Henkin, Assistant Defense Secretary for Public Affairs, also had ordered a review of films the Pentagon makes available to the public to remove from circulation those reflecting outdated cold war foreign policy concepts.

"Times do change and we try to learn from them," Friedheim told reporters. "And from time to time we learn something from suggestions that you make."

CBS News President Richard S. Salant announced Friday the network will broadcast a discussion of the controversial documentary titled "Perspective: The Selling of the Pentagon" from 10 to 11 p.m. April 18 because "we feel that a continued discussion is in the national interest."

CBS News said no one in the government has asked for time to reply to the original show. The participants in the discussion will be equally divided among supporters and critics of the Pentagon activities and will be announced shortly.

Meanwhile, CBS picked up support from journalists and journalism organizations.

Hoffa Gets Jail 'Furlough' To Visit His Ailing Wife

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — James R. Hoffa has been released from a federal prison in Pemsylvania to visit his wife, seriously ill with a heart condition in San Francisco.

The Justice Department announced Friday in Washington that the Teamsters Union president was granted a furlough Wednesday to travel without supervision after Mrs. Hoffa's doctor said Hoffa's presence "is urgently required."

Hoffa's attorney, Morris Shenker, said: "As a result of the visit, her doctors report she is much improved. They are very hopeful."

The Justice Department said no time has been set for Hoffa's return to the U.S. Penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., where he has been confined since 1967 but his furlough "is not expected to last more than a week."

Mrs. Hoffa was admitted to the University of California Medical Center March 18 for treatment of what doctors describe as a painful condition. She was treated for a heart ailment last November in Miami, her doctor said.

A patient on the fifth floor of the hospital, where Mrs. Hoffa is being treated, said Hoffa has been smuggled daily into the hospital since Wednesday. The patient said Hoffa would wear a long white coat, such as is worn by doctors, and a walkie-talkie system was used to make sure hallways were clear before he arrived and departed by a side entrance.

Two husky men are stationed at Mrs. Hoffa's door, and they warned newsmen away from the fifth floor.

The Justice Department said such furloughs "are considered routine and are granted in cases of personal emergency when the prisoner is not considered an escape risk." The announcement said 245 personal emergency furloughs have been granted in the past six months by the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

Hoffa has served four years of a 13-year prison term for jury tampering and mail fraud.

His second application for parole was rejected a week ago.

The Job Situation: Sad Story for Most

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has moved to open more jobs for two groups hard-hit by unemployment but says efforts on behalf of a third are disappointing.

The Labor Department announced Friday toughened rules governing minority apprentice-training programs around the nation. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said rules are needed to close "wide gaps in acceptance of qualified minority apprentices in many skilled trades."

At the White House, meanwhile, President Nixon said he will ask Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $64.3 million to provide 100,000 extra jobs for youth this summer. The added money would help finance jobs for 514,000 young people for nine months.

But as these efforts were disclosed, a Labor Department official said in an interview a program set up to get jobs for out-of-work engineers—the engineer jobs bank—has been relatively unsuccessful.

"We've had a lot of applications, you know, but the job orders are not coming in as fast as we hoped they would," said Fred E. Romero, acting director of the Office of Technical Support.

The job bank, set up five months ago in Sacramento, Calif., attempts to match job seekers with prospective employers. But at present there are 5,000 applications for only 300 job openings.

Nevertheless, a pilot program is under development between the Labor and Housing and Urban Development departments to retrain out-of-work engineers for tackling urban problems.

Secretary Hodgson, announcing the new minority apprenticeship rules, said there has been some improvement in training, but more is needed.

Under the new regulations, all programs registered with the Labor Department or federally approved state agencies will be required to "develop and adopt affirmative action programs including, if necessary, approved goals, timetables and selection methods ...."

Pakistan Civil War Rebels Suffer Losses

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Pakistan claimed today its army had dealt "crushing blows" to secessionist forces in several key places in East Pakistan. It said it had total control of the capital of Dacca, the Bay of Bengal port of Chittagong and Jessore Town near the Indian border and was reported moving troops against the western district of Kushtia.

The government's Radio Pakistan also announced a new martial law regulation severely restricting the influx of people across the Indian border. It was designed to prevent the entry of "Freedom Fighters" and others considered a threat to the government's security.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) News Agency said the Pakistani Navy and the Secessionists fought their first river battle of the 15-day-old Civil War Friday.

PTI said gunboats exchanged fire on the Padma River, the Bengali name for the Ganges. The agency did not say how many warships were involved or the outcome of the battle.

Many East Bengalis, who are expert sailors, serve in the Pakistani Navy, most of them as enlisted men. Several of them are reported to have mutinied and defected to the Bengal Liberation Forces with gunboats and arms.

In Dacca, the government said it had the situation so well in hand that it was returning weapons it had confiscated from civilians. It said harbor operations in Chittagong had been restored to normal and that dock workers were returning to their jobs in large numbers.

Its recapture of Jessore, military sources said, showed Pakistan's troops can move out of their garrisons at will and inflict heavy punishments on the Bangal Desh (Bengal Land) secessionists.

The River

IT WAS THE RIVER that furnished the only artery of transportation in an earlier day, and this recent photo by Freeman photographer Bob Haines proves that transportation still flourishes on the Hudson. The third sesssion of the upcoming Regional History Workshop will delve more deeply into this subject when Dr. Charles A. Galyon lectures on "The River—Transportation Artery."

NO WHERE IS THE GEOGRAPHY of the Hudson more spectacular than along the highway on Storm King, and no where has the concern for ecology surfaced more strongly than here. "The River—Geography and Ecology" is the subject of the second lecture in the April-June History Workshop, and the guest speaker will be Dr. Theodore Wohnsiedler. (Freeman photo by Haines)

History Workshop Opens New Horizons

It has been an exciting avenue of discovery, the front door that led to a new nation, a dominating factor in the American Revolution, and a means by which the United States became a great economic power.

Fascinated by its flowing course through the Adirondacks and Catskills, through farms and forests, past giant industrial cities and tiny orchard-bordered villages, many have written of its golden history and heritage. Artists have painted millions of canvases along its shores and bridge builders have thrown their massive structures across it at many points.

From its beginning in the Adirondack wilderness to its end where it laps at the skirts of the Statue of Liberty, it has shaped the lives of a people.

Now it is once again the focus of uncommon interest. Actually, it's young as rivers go. But in the 300 years of records surrounding it, there is a wealth of history.

And that history will be explored as never before in "THE RIVER," the Sixth Regional History Workshop to be sponsored locally by Ulster County Community College and Ulster County Historical Society. Into six short Thursday sessions (April 29 to June 3 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.), "The River" Workshop will compress our own Hudson River's influence in moulding the character and characteristics of that very special breed of men that has always inhabited its shores.

The Workshop will focus exclusively on the Hudson River, explore the waterway in terms of yesterday, today and tomorrow. Which means that a rich and rewarding experience, indeed, is being offered those who attend the Workshop. And it's open to everyone for the small fee of $7.50.

For those who would walk the Hudson shores in lectures as famed artist Thomas Cole walked it physically in the early 1800's, the Workshop will take participants down the scenic and historic Hudson River Valley corridor, touching on its many moods and faces over the years. Immortalized already, the river will be immortalized again in a series of six programs, featuring a roster of brilliant speakers in a variety of county locations.

Program kicks off April 29 at Kingston's J. Watson Bailey School auditorium with a look at the natural beauty of the Hudson. Speaker will be Dr. Theodore Wohnsiedler, assistant professor of Biology at UCCC and his topic will be "The River — Geography & Ecology."

The second session, set May 6 at Old Dutch Church here, delves into the melting pot that made up the settlers along its shores. City of Kingston historian Harry Rigby Jr. will speak that night on "The River — Its Native People."

And since, in the early days, the river furnished the only artery of transportation, the third program is planned to accent Fulton's crude Clermont, steamer rides on glittering Dayliners, and other boats plying their business afloat. That particular story will be told by Dr. Charles A. Galyon, Kingston Landmarks Commission member, when he speaks on "The River — Transportation Artery" on May 13 at the County Courthouse here.

Bedford Prefers The Classics and Shines In a 'Tony' Winner

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

To actor Brian Bedford, it matters little whether producers seek him out for roles in modern plays or the classics. A 20th-Century phenomenon like atomic energy and moonshots, he's played the most modern of mods in such jet-aged as "The Pad and How To Use It" and "The Knack."

Still, in true theatrical tradition, he switches easily to the classics; prefers them because there are more "good" classic plays around than modern ones.

And it was a classic that saw Broadway bestowing its 1971 Tony Award upon Bedford, who earned one of the top individual acting trophies of the year for drama.

No Surprise

It easn't any real surprise when the English-born Bedford won in voting that saw more than 450 representatives of stage guilds, craft unions and the press balloting. He had already captured the imagination of his colleagues and theatre-goers for his witty and brilliant emoting in Moliere's "School for Wives," written in 1662 after the celebrated playwright married a callow actress 20 years his junior. Moliere turned his own mis-mated love story into what many consider the master's greatest comedy in a play produced the same year in which he married his inamorata to his regret.

Bedford plays the cranky pedant with such energy and control, with such a high style combining vinegar, pathos and drollness, that audiences seem unaware they're watching a 300-year-old play. It's a tour de force for the good-looking, 36-year-old Bedford, who dons a flowing wig, padded costume and highheeled shoes to become Moliere's Arnolphe, an older man who has married a fool and learns the difference between young love and marriage.

When Bedford accepted his coveted Tony on television recently, he showed his off-stage wit and charm by suggesting it was a "wise choice" on the part of voters. And while master of ceremonies, actor Anthony Quayle, made note of the fact that only English actors had been nominated for drama this year,

IN WHIZ BANG QUICK CITY:

A Lean-To for Two; A Modern Teepee

WITH NO TRAFFIC (except pedestrian) allowed on Quick City's main thoroughfare, the street can accommodate a cook-out. Tired and hungry after raising their instant city in record-breaking time, these architectural students eagerly await dinner.

INSIDE GIGANTIC INFLATABLE PILLOW, two students discuss where to put the bedrolls for the night. Seats from their car are utilized as living room chairs, and the chilly Catskill Mountain air outside is kept at bay with forced air heat.

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

They named it WHIZ BANG QUICK CITY, and it fit the description like an expensive French glove.

It went up in a wooded, still snow-covered valley in Wittenberg in a matter of hours last Saturday afternoon. By nightfall, balloons of every hue soared high overhead to mark the site, and the city itself was a colorful sprawl of unlikely, live-in structures.

Helium float balloons; giant, inflatable pillows; tarp tents; geodesic domes made of carpet tubes and cardboard; parachute teepees. All surrounded like a wagon train of old by the cars and vans of their builders—and ranged around a big camp fire.

A New Lifestyle

It was touted as an "Experiment in New Lifestyles" and for the four days it existed on the map, it was a new way of urban life in a rural setting—designed on the spot spontaneously by those who had come to live there.

Quick City went up in what must have been record-breaking time for a self-sufficient community Saturday afternoon at the Riverby Inc. land project in Wittenberg; was dismantled Tuesday night. During its brief existence, it had housed 250 inhabitants—all intent on discovering if they needed the support of those facilities and services associated with a highly organized city.

Converging on the virgin, wooded site in Wittenberg, they built their pre-fab, do-it-yourself city—shaping their physical and social codes and rules according to their own values and needs at the time and place required.

Water was already there in abundance in a rushing mountain brook. They brought along their own toilet facilities; stood prepared to recycle their garbage. Once the pre-fab structures were in place, they settled down to camp fire and hibachi cooking, playing basketball on a makeshift court, washing their cooking utensils in the stream, chopping wood for the community fireplace, living in a real environment.

Not in Textbooks

Quick City's builders were architectural students, many of them enrolled in classes taught by Les Walker and Robert Mangurian at City College of New York. Leaning against a cardboard dome, painted in bright yellow enamel, Walker explained how the Whiz Bang operation came to be.

"As instructors, we were frustrated," he said, "because our CCNY architectural students never had the chance to build anything. Hemmed in by life in the city, we dealt only with paper and pencils."

Why not spend a term actually going out into the country and building? No sooner said than done. This term, a City College contingent (augmented by students from Harvard, Cornell and other colleges and universities in the northeast) move onto acreage wherever they can find someone to donate land. Raising high the roof beams on their polyethelene, corrugated cardboard, carpet tubes and para-tent structures, they built an instant city—one they can live in for four or five days before moving on.

Learn A Lot

In the doing, they learn how to make their temporary habitations tight against the weather, how to relate their mini-city experiment to big city prob-

FLAGS AND BALLOONS, posters and signs proved popular decorative innovations as Whiz Bang Quick City found itself briefly on the Woodstock map. This temporary dwelling is part dome, part lean-to for two.

GERALD GOODMAN

Troubadour - Harpist Excels in Concert

TEMPO can attest to the fact that there's interest aplenty locally in Gerald Goodman, a young man heralded by music critics for his sparkling style and brilliant display of excellent musicianship. When a concert by Goodman was announced here last December, we received more than a few calls on the date and time of his performance. And when the program had to be rescheduled because of a major storm, calls came in again about a new date.

Good news, then, that troubadour-harpist Goodman will fulfill his concert appearance here April 18 at 4 p.m. in West Park's Ascension Parish Hall.

Goodman creates imaginative programs that appeal to all musical tastes. While he plays ballads of the 16th century court dances, he also performs the latest selections with the collegiate set, bringing to life favorites from the American musical theater.

With great performing flair, he uses his skill as an artist to dazzle any audience. His complete command of the harp allows him to use this instrument for percussion effects and, on numerous occasions, he has brought concert audiences to their feet for standing ovations.

Syndicated columnist Earl Wilson has called Goodman the "World's Most Versatile Harpist."

The public is invited to the April 18 afternoon concert, so plan now to attend and enjoy.

Bedford Prefers the Classics

Bedford does not totally fit that description.

He has made New York his home and while he maintains bachelor digs in an ultra-modern New York City apartment house, he can always be found in his upstate country home when he's not working. That would put him weekends and other non-working days in an old Dutch stone house build in the 1970's right here in Ulster County.

Here for Six Years

A Ruby resident for the past six years, he has a thing about very old houses, bought his Ruby home, ironically, from the proceeds of a movie rather than one of his innumerable stage plays (he's done eight on Broadway alone, plus many London successes).

Bedford never really cared much for the mill and mine town in England where he was born. But here in the Catskills, he's found what he'd been seeking to make up for the depressing scenes of his youth. Because he likes old houses, he now lives in one of the oldest around; has bought several vintage apartment houses to rent out, furnishing them himself as a hobby. One of his recent local acquisitions was the Wynkoop Place dormitory once owned by Mike Perry and used to house Ulster County Community College basketball players. Before that, its past history included a period as the old parsonage of the Comforter Reformed Church.

Even more recently, Bedford couldn't resist buying Gene Whalen's Ulster Landing restaurant. Its Hudson River setting appealed to his aesthetic senses, so he bought it and leased it to friends to run.

His aesthetic sense also commits him to the purchase of first-class art. He owns works by Kline and Modigliani, as well as some by Milton Avery, the acclaimed painter who chose Woodstock in the Catskills much in the same way Bedford has chosen Ruby and the Hudson River.

For the current toast of Broadway then (an actor equally adept at Shakespeare, Noel Coward, Arthur Miller or Tennessee Williams), it's been off to New York late every Monday since Feb. 16 for a smashing comedy performance in "School for Wives" and back to Ruby every Saturday night for some homestyle relaxation on the quiet side.

"YOUR SHIELD OF SECURITY"

It's Maple Sugaring Time

It's that time of year again—frosty nights, warm sunny days, and the sap is running in the sugar maple trees.

But sugaring-off has changed since grandpa's day. Wagons and sleighs have been replaced by tractors and four-wheel drive tank trucks. Paths are cleared for the trucks by huge snow-blowers. And, more and more frequently, buckets have been abandoned and thousands of feet of plastic tubing going from tree to tree substituted.

But one thing remains unchanged — the high quality of New York and New England maple syrup. Our own Empire State usually produces more maple syrup than any other state in the nation, with Massachusetts and Vermont giving us a run for our money.

Year's First Crop

And with maple syrup as New York's first crop of the year, the retail value of the crop averages about $3,000,000 a year from over 1,000,000 taps on New York trees.

So, why not take advantage of our maple wealth, and sweeten up your family? Bear in mind that official New York State grades are "light amber," "medium amber," or "dark amber," with light amber considered the most delicately flavored.

And, with the season at its peak, you might want to sweeten up your family, too, by visiting a nearby maple sugaring scene. Two spots within easy driving distance of Kingston offer rustic outings that are always enjoyable.

When the sweet water begins to rise in the trunks of the maple trees, it's fun to visit Waterman's Red Barn Sugar Camp, still operating with old-time flair in the Western Catskills. Open at all times every day of the week, it's a free entertainment that's fun and educational. Waterman's is near Route 23 at West Harpersfield, just over six miles from Stamford.

Village Authenticity

Another maple sugaring stronghold is Old Sturbridge Village at Sturbridge, Mass., where the early New England tradition has been authentically recreated. Here the sap troughs were made by hollowing out logs with an adze, and the wooden sap spouts were copied from available antiques.

Some 50 trees have been tapped in the Village, and tourists from ages two to 75 years have been flocking in to see the sugaring operation and to taste the finished product as it comes from the boiling kettles.

Imitating the early New England farmers who organized sugar camps in the maple woods, where iron kettles of sap were hung over an open fire, the Villages utilizes iron kettles with fires built under each kettle of sap. During the demonstration, spokesmen point out that because white sugar was rather expensive in the period recreated in the Village, maple sugar was a cheaper sweetener to use in old New England households.

History buffs also know that here in our own New York State, Indians celebrated the return of spring with a "maple moon" festival—known today as the "sugaring-off time."

There's an old tale about the discovery of maple syrup that attributes it to an Indian squaw and her husband. She, it seems, left her cooking pot under a tree where her brave was napping to remind him to bring her some water from the spring. When he awakened and saw it, he plunged his tomahawk deep into the tree in a rage, to remind her in turn that fetching water was a squaw's chore.

The tree, of course, was a maple and—because of the tomahawk cut, the pot was full of sap by morning. Think it was water, the squaw stewed her vension in it and thus became the first gourmet chef in American history. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

Winter Reigns at One Gallery; Summer Exits at Another

SPRING HAS SPRUNG outdoors, but inside local and area art galleries the emphasis is on other seasons. Winter dominates the landscape in "The Rescue," one of the more than 30 paintings by Kingston artist Nancy Orlowa in the current exhibit at Delano's current exhibit at Delano's Gallery on Fair Street. Her one-woman show may be viewed there daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; features still life works, along with landscapes, seascapes and portraits. (Freeman photo by Haines)

MOVIES

Doctors' Wives

Soap opera lovers will greet this film, now at Kingston's Community, with glee. Scalpels flash in a movie that's so bad it actually emerges as fun entertainment, as the plot revolves around the sordid vagaries of a small group of California physicians and their mates.

In spite of it's outrageous story, lack of acting merit, and emphasis on sex, its melodramatics are often sharp and funny. Eventually, pretty-as-a-picture Dyan Cannon gets herself shot by a jealous husband, who also does in her lover (George Gaynes), and the scandal puts a stopper on the activities of the philandering physicians and their game of musical beds in a private clinic.

The large cast includes Janice Rule, Richard Crenna, Carroll O'Connor, Cara Williams, and John Colicos, particularly good as a villainous brain surgeon with homicidal inclinations. In the final analysis, "Doctors' Wives" is vulgarly terrible, but terribly entertaining for both those who enjoy soapsuds and those who have learned to laugh at mawkish grossness.

The Aristocrats

It will prove an actual pleasure to take your kids to the Orpheum Theatre in Saugerties currently, where this delightful Walt Disney feature-length cartoon is playing. Set in Paris in 1910, it's the story of the adventures of a glamorous mommy cat and her three mischievous kittens, kidnapped and left out in the wilds by a wicked butler who wants their prospective inheritance. Rescued and returned to their mistress by a variety of colorful animals, they go home to the lap of luxury.

The casting is excellent with voices provided by Evå Gabor, Phil Harris, Hermione Baddeley, Sterling Holloway, Ruth Buzzi and others.

An extra-added attraction on the Orpheum's double bill is "King of the Grizzlies," another Disney production. All about a Cree Indian, a ranch owner and a mighty bear named WAHB.

Other Choices

TORA! TORA! TORA! Currently featured at both Red Hook's Lyceum and Hyde Park Drive-In, this booming re-creation of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, with both sides (Japan and the U.S.) telling their story. Emphasis in the first half is on the blunders, deceptions and blindness of the big brass minds. Action in the second half focuses on the surprise strike and BOMBING, BOMBING, BOMBING.

LITTLE FAUSS AND BIG HALSY. Michael J. Pollard as Fauss and Robert Redford as Halsy ride their motorcycles unsuccessfully in race after race at bike meets across the Southwest. Now at Overlook Drive-In, it's a study of the male relationship between Fauss, ugly but good, and Halsy, a handsome, lying louse who uses and abuses women.

MY FAIR LADY. One of the most spectacular musicals of all time, "Lady" is back at Hyde Parks's Roosevelt for a joyous rerun. With Audrey Hepburn as the cockney flower-girl transformed into an elegant lady and Rex Harrison as her instructor, Professor Henry Higgins, it's a delightful romp through an earlier London.

HUSBANDS. Still enjoying a long run at the Juliet in Poughkeepsie is this excellent film by the talented John Cassavetes, who directed, produced, helped write and co-stars. A dynamic portrait of three middle-aged men on a desperate lark in London, with some of the finest acting of any year by Cassavetes, Ben Gazzara and Peter Falk.

FIVE EASY PIECES. At Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema, this modern and contemporary film that's up for several Academy Awards. Jack Nicholson stars as a concert pianist turned oil rigger in an attempt not to search out meaning in life, but to get away from bad vibrations. Karen Black excels as his waitress girlfriend.

age that saw a million passengers booked in a year will not be ignored in the Workshop. Donald C. Ringwald, author of "Hudson River Steamboating," will describe those floating palaces in "The River — Golden Age of Steamboating" on May 20 in Kingston High School auditorium.

Round-Up Session

The following program is planned as a round-up and audience participation discussion, featuring all speakers mentioned above and moderated by Kenneth Hasbrouck. It'll be held May 27 at Kingston High auditorium; will offer a chance for a backward look and a fresh look at what we have in "The River."

The final session June 3 at Bevier House, Marbletown, will see the awarding of certificates of attendance to all Workshop participants and a social hour highlighted by refreshments.

TEMPO recommends this Regional Workshop highly; sees it as an opportunity to reclaim the glamorous past and prepare for the new age dawning. Send your letter of registration and check ($7.50, payable now to Ulster County Community College, Office of Dean of Faculty, attention Mrs. Edith Searles), and assure yourself of a ringside seat as the days of old are remembered. A Lean-To for Two lems, how to go about the actual technology of building, how to create the idea of their own community and their own society.

Always built in one day since it has to be lived in that same night, Quick City is anything but a "spectator scene." Walker sees it as the complete opposite of the sometimes-celebrated Woodstock music festival of two summers ago. Woodstock supposedly spawned its own "nation" of young, but Walker maintains it left much to be desired since the thousands upon thousands attending were content to simply watch a very few others "do their thing."

Quick City, he points out, involves everybody in doing something."

The truth of that statement is evident in the ring of shovels and hammers, the rattle of cooking utensils, the shouts of children flying kites or playing basketball, the intense discussions on whether today's dome made of carpet tubes could be tomorrow's dome-home of steel or aluminum.

It is evident, too, in the Quick City orchestra, made up of all the mini-town's residents playing their own instruments. Unlike the previously mentioned Woodstock rock happening, it is an orchestra without an audience, adding fuel to Walker's belief that involvement is superior to watching.

Woodstock's Ghost

Ironically, however, the ghost of Woodstock haunts the Quick City Dream. Last Saturday, the youthful architects headed for a 50-acre site in Hartford near Glens Falls, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Khinoy for their experiment in living. Erroneous publicity that 15,000 kids were descending on Hartford for a rock festival preceded them and — blocking their way to the property — stood the Washington County Sheriff, injunction in hand. Two other sites (one larger, one smaller) were offered in the area, but the sheriff was adamant.

To the rescue came Woodstock attorneys and land developers Joshua Koplovitz and Gerald Wapner, who invited the 200-plus non-rocking builders to leave the muddy and muddled woods of Hartford behind and build with a will in snowy Wittenberg.

The city builders arrived at the Riverby acreage in the northern reaches of Woodstock an hour or so following the invitation — and Whiz Bang Quick City opened its doors to visitors before nightfall.

Visitors came in droves over the four days the city burgeoned, marveling at live-in parachutes, electrical conduit domes, and giant, inflatable pillows with forced air heating systems that kept the temperature at a cozy 60 degrees inside.

Said Walker as he packed his van and headed back for New York: "We conducted a successful experiment in what turned out to be a very good society. Now we'll go back to the classroom, make drawings of what happened here, study the project from a city planning point of view, learn a lot about what we need to know about placing a structure in a certain location in relation to the rest of the community."

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Oh, if only "potpourri" had pictures! Bob Steeger's male version of "hot pants" defied description one recent Saturday at Capri '400.' Bob looked like he just walked off cover of "After-Five Fashions," brass buttons and all. Since becoming one of Kingston's most handsome grandpas, he's really changed his image. Everything he touches turns to limelight. In fact, even grandson's arrival was announced in lights at Holiday Inn marquee. But then son-in-law Alphonse Sottile Jr. earns his bread there as restaurant manager!

* * *

It was "Women's 'LIP'" at YWCA April 1 when Y-Wives held annual Talent Night. Entitled "Fools Rush In" and appropriately presented on April Fool's Day, original script was penned by Mrs. Herb (Sofia) Reuner and was take-off on boob tube's interview-talk shows.

Decked out like Zsa Zsa Gabor, Sofia (pronounced So-Fee-A, if you please) had answers for everything from world issues to local events (including remedy for Kingston's pigeon-problem; "feed them The Pill." With fantastic memory and machine-gun rapidity, Sofia even amazed hubby Herb with her hi-falootin, jet-set lingo.

Authentic even to commercials, gals advertised "hot pants" complete with wire and plug, along with Pat Schrieber's intriguing political announcement; "Don't Let Claire Booth Luce"; and her artistic posters: Sanity is a state of mind . . . Familiarity Breeds . . . Where Did Vincent VanGogh; and Come to Church Sunday, avoid the Christmas Rush!

Husbands were invited as they were noticeably developing head-shaking tics from listening to rehearsals at home. (Men at the Y? Bears lookin' into!) Following the satire, which included Anita Schoonmaker, Elaine Burnett, Mrs. Francis Short and Mrs. Paul Pasharow among others, husbands dove into their wives' friends' homemade whipped cream and cherry cheese pies. Amen!

* * *

Realtor Mrs. Vincent (Ruth) Guido of Sherry Lane was hostess Sunday at cocktail party for Brian Bedford, '71 Tony Award winner. Decor included wall-size poster of Bedford—now starring in "School for Wives," for which he netted drama trophy.

On the scene were 'bout 30 friends and business allies: Leonard Carriou (Lauren Bacall's co-star in "Applause"); actress Roberta Maxwell; David Dukes who performs with Brian in "Wives"; the Wilbur Peters; Bill and Esther Skilling, Kay and John Sullivan; Brian's attorney John Wilkie and Judy; Nancy and Dick Winter of Hurley Antiques.

Brian — talented in varied fields — works in his Ruby stone house (remodelled according to his own ideas), and is A-1 chef. Successful but humble — a hard combination to beat — he's popular with local residents as well as New York's finest. Ruth — best-lookin' gal in Guido home (two Vincents, David, Mark) — sums it up brief-as-a-bikini: "Brian was top man in our book even before the Tony." His interest in others was evidenced at party; while all were swappin' trade secrets, Brian was busy tradin' school talk with Ruth's sons. With charisma like that, we can all hope for a certain amount of fallout.

Two for Theatre Fans

JUST BEFORE their daughter's wedding, Larry Parks and Betty Garrett strike a pose in "PLAZA SUITE." Comedy due here Monday, April 12 at 8:30 p.m. for one-night stand at Community Theatre. Tickets are on sale there now.

HAL HOLBROOK in "Mark Twain Tonight" should lure many to West Point on Saturday, April 17, where celebrated actor will present his Tony-winning Broadway performance at U.S. Military Academy. Tickets are $5; may be ordered from the Officer's or NCO Clubs at the Point.

Silent-Screen Classic Showing

"Modern Times," Charlie Chaplin's 1936 silent-screen classic on the machine age, will be shown at Bennett College, Millbrook, on the evening of Tuesday, April 13. The movie is a presentation in the college's International Film Series, intended for the general public, and will be screened in Matthison-Kennedy Auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m.

The film is one of the most famous Chaplin ever made and also includes in the cast Paulette Goddard and Chester Conklin.

Earlier on the same evening, the college's Masters of Film class will be shown Fritz Lang's "While the City Sleeps." Also open to the public, this movie will be presented in Matthison-Kennedy Auditorium beginning at 6 p.m.

Russia's Mr. Magoo

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actor Brian Cox has 20-20 vision. For "Nicholas and Alexandra," Columbia Pictures' historical spectacle now shooting in Spain, he plays Trotsky, who was a veritable Mr. Magoo.

In molding Cox into the Russian leader, makeup gave him a pair of thick, pebble glasses with graduated lenses. Cox, half-blind, stumbled onto the, set walked through a paper mache wall, stepped into a pail of paint and fell into a replica of a Romanov breakfront smashing it to splinters. "What a great actor," producer Sam Spiegel bellowed. "He puts on Trotsky's glasses, and boom! A one-man revolution!"

The Art of Africa

From April 12 to May 1, the Visual Arts Department of Ulster County Community College, will present a photographic exhibit, The Creative Past: Art of Africa. The exhibit consists of 50 photographs, based on a major survey of African Sculpture held at the National Gallery of Art, arranged to give a historical perspective to the development of African art from 300 B.C. to the early 20th century.

Time Magazine commented: "The show makes clear what many people overlook — that Black Africa developed highly organized cultures and a sophisticated naturalistic art long before the Europeans arrived."

Some of the works included demonstrate that the ancient Africans could achieve a naturalism comparable to that of Egypt, Greece and Renaissance Italy. But Africa's unique contribution to world art is the expressionistic wooden sculpture and highly stylized masks of tribal art, the art that impressed and excited such modern Western masters as Picasso and Matisse and had major impact on the course of 20th century art.

The exhibit will be on view in the Visual Arts Gallery of the John Burroughs Building, on UCCC's Stone Ridge campus. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to see the exhibit during regular school hours, Monday through Friday.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

HAPPY EASTER!

At this season of "rebirth," let's hope that as emerging Spring casts off the shackles of Winter, and brings new color into our lives, it also will help us cast off some of the shackles that are making life a burden for so many, and bring some new, joyous color into the world.

There are so many old, wintry, gnarled roots and branches strangling so much of the world; how's about hacking away some of that deadwood, and letting some lively sprigs full of the milk of human kindness have a little growing room? There are so many ills and injustices that our world, our nation, our state and our county well could do without; I have no panacea for the world, the nation and the state, but here in our county, (which, fortunately, is not as troubled as most places I read about) we still could use a little more compassion and cooperation. Let's make Tomorrow a jumping off point for at least a 5% happier relationship with our neighbors. Go to church tomorrow and give thanks that you've seen another Spring; give a prayer for a harvest of Peace and Happiness from the seeds we sow this season; and if you feel like celebrating your new commitment . . . bring the family to ROBERTO'S for our traditional Easter Sunday Dinner. I hope I won't be considered sacrilegious by following an Easter prayer with a plug for Easter Dinner, but when I mentioned "Happier Relationship with Our Neighbors," I included the happiness you'll give to your family, as well as to Roberto and me, by being with us tomorrow.

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

We are privileged to serve a great variety of "celebrative Dinners, but none gives as as much sentimental pleasure as the rare "Golden Wedding" . . . such as the 50th Anniversary celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Michael McGowan Sr. along with their six children and their spouses: Mr. and Mrs. William Ball, Mr. and Mrs. John Haber Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Huth Jr., Michael McGowan Jr. and his fiance, Miss Mary Tripp, of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Philip McGowan, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Primo Sr. What a beautiful way to greet the Golden Years! Anything I've said about the smartness of holding Dinner Parties on week nights can be proved by example. For instance, the heartwarming Retirement Dinner for Miss Ann Brown, of Saugerties. It was held on a Thursday, and I merely need quote the comment of the party: "Wonderful! We had a ball! Food and Service were Elegant!" Ask any of the celebrators (and the celebratee, Miss Brown!) The others present were: Mrs. Eleanor Bell, Mrs. Lauretta Christiana, Mrs. Sophia Corneiski, Mrs. Ann Van Demark, Miss Mary Flannery, Miss Marie Groppe, Mrs. Helen Kelly, Mrs. Win Kraniak, Miss Evelyn Lang, Mrs. Teen Palen, Mrs. Catherine Perry and Miss Cookie Perry, Mrs. Anne Schenk, Mrs. Kathryn Spinneweber, Mrs. Sheila Sudlow, Mrs. Helen Taylor and Mrs. Marie Zaccia. The 12th Anniversary Dinner of Barbara and Willy Edmunds, of Saugerties, was shared by Jan and Bob Martin, Nancy and Al Condo, and Marilyn and Matt Duer, all of Saugerties. I simply must relay Marilyn Duer's comments, pro and con: "Roberto's has it, and he flaunts it! We enjoyed the fine cuisine and the warm atmosphere; but I suggest a more comfortable seating arrangement for the entire restaurant." Thanks for the kind words, Mrs. Duer; but you hit us on a night when about nine tables of eight or more people came in, and we just don't have that many large round tables. (We're getting more!) You're right about the necessity for retaining the cozy, homey atmosphere; but when steady patrons come in and want to be served, even in large groups, we have to do our best to make them happy. I think rubber walls would help, if I could get some. I also wish The Daily Freeman could get some rubber type, so I could squeeze in all the great parties we had last week. (Whatever I can't get in will be printed next week!) For instance: The Bon Voyage party for the Robert A. Ronders, which included Dr. and Mrs. Morton Cohen, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spiegel. As Mrs. Ronder noted: "Fun! A good time was had by all." She didn't say where they're off to, but wherever it is . . . enjoy! At the table of Carusos celebrating "Happy Birhtday to Gram" . . . who is Mrs. Marty Caruso, the loving grandchildren were Celestine, Christina, Katherine and Thomas Caruso. Many, many more, Grama Caruso! At the table where Roger Bell (of IBM) and Mrs. Bell were helping Frank W. Falk quietly celebrate his 40th year with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. (after a round robin of celebrations for two days!). Frank's comment was: "While not really the first time we've been here, we enjoyed this evening and it certainly will not be the last time. The entertainment was excellent!" Another quiet celebration, William and Regina Lawton celebrating her birthday, elicited a familiar comment: "The Dinner was Great!" The party comprised of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Kantor, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley London, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reamer and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky, had a pithy comment: "Celebrating nothing at all but savoring every minute of eating, drinking, joking and enjoying each other's company." What more could a dinner offer? When Harry and Millie Short celebrated Mr. Short's 29th Birthday, they forgot to specify the last names of the other couples; near as I can figure out, they were Jerry and Laura, of Kingston, George and Barbara of Lake George and Tom and Anita of Albany. But I easily understood his comment about the dinner: "The Best!" That table of ten having such a good time was the "Monthly Get-Together For Dinner and Night Out" for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barone, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans, Mr. and Mrs. William Manfredi, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sears (all of Poughkeepsie) and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rieger of Yonkers. Another merry-making group included Val and Ed Delaney, Kay and Walter Duke, Betty and Lem Howard, Clara and Dick Morgan, and Sherry Winchell, Val joined in with our "Saturday Soiree" in the Cocktail Lounge, with some terrific singing. Lack of space prevents my listing all the great "regulars" who are the heart and soul of our famous Saturday Nights . . . but I must say that Tony "Red" Amato couldn't stay away too long from doing some singing with us. As you know, he's very busy in his own restaurant, "Papa Joe's" on Downs Street in Kingston. If you hanker for some great Italian food, try it. Good Luck, Red!

MISH AND MASH

Speaking of our Saturday Night Soirees, our Friday night entertainment is beginning to attract its own crowd, to enjoy Mark Garrison at The Hammond and the great Tommy Fitzgerald on the drums (and doing the vocals!) As I've hinted before, we are planning on a regular program of Friday Night Shindigs (including Dancing) and as soon as we get some of the details buttoned down, I'll shout out the news. Meanwhile, don't forget that tomorrow's EASTER SUNDAY DINNER starts at $5.50, including Roberto's regular "Extras At No Extra Cost." Children's Easter Dinner $3.95. Reservations would be a good idea.

Airport and Patton Up for Top Honors In 'Oscars' Race

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Airport" and "Patton" topped Academy Award nominations recently with 10 each.

"Love Story," the sentimental romantic drama harking back to the 1930s placed seven nominees.

Nominated for best picture of the year for the April 15 awards extravaganza to be aired on television were "Airport," "Five Easy Pieces," "Love Story," "M-A-S-H," and "Patton."

For Best Actor

Best performance by an actor nominations for 1970 will see Melvyn Douglas, I Never Sang for My Father vying with four younger actors — James Earl Jones, The Great White Hope; Jack Nicholson, Five Easy Pieces; Ryan O'Neal, Love Story; George C. Scott, Patton.

Actresses nominated for best performance of the year (and here the accent is on youth) were Jane Alexander, The Great White Hope; Glenda Jackson, Women in Love; Ali MacGraw, Love Story; Sarah Miles, Ryan's Daughter; Carrie Snodgress, Diary of a Mad Housewife.

Nominated for best supporting performances in the actress category were Karen Black, Five Easy Pieces; Lee Grant, The Landlord; Helen Hayes, Airport; Sally Kellerman, M-A-S-H; and Maureen Stapleton, Airport.

Actors nominated for best supporting roles were Richard Castellano, Lovers and Other Strangers; Chief Dan George, Little Big Man; Gene Hackman, I Never Sang for My Father; John Marley, Love Story; John Mills, Ryan's Daughter.

Two Former Winners

Announcements were made at the Academy Award Theater by former Oscar Winner John Wayne (True Grit 1969). Of the 20 performers nominated for the 43rd annual Oscar derby only Miss Hayes and Douglas have won previously.

Nominated for best achievement in directing were Federico Fellini, Fellini Satyricon; Arthur Hiller, Love Story; Robert Altman, M-A-S-H; Franklin J. Schaffner, Patton; and Ken Russell, Women in Love.
